CAMPAIGN TO DELAY DRAFT GIVEN CHANCE

Compromise Program Gains Strength in Senate After General's Statement.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug 15—The house rejected today a proposal to restrict to the continental United States and a few other areas under the American flag the use of national guardsmen and army reserves who soon may be called to active service

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug 15—Administration strategists privately predicted today that there was a good chance the senate would reject immediate conscription by refusing the start of compulsory service until January

Opponents said that their fight for enactment of the Burke-Wadsworth immediate conscription bill had run into difficulties because of the statement by Brigadier General E Shedd assistant chief of staff that the army would be able to absorb a full quota of draftees before December

Fuel for Foes

The statement they said had supplied ammunition to foes of the compromise measure Senator Maloney (D Conn) who would register all men between 21 and 31 immediately but postpone the calling of any until 1 1941

Only a sentiment shifts is reached on the compromise next week after a check-up of senators said to win ap-

It was pointed out that the senate bill providing for immediate conscription next autumn makes the start contingent on the army's failure to obtain enough men by voluntary enlistments by that date Foes of immediate conscription have argued that given the opportunity voluntary enlistments would be numerous enough to make a draft unnecessary

In the senate meanwhile Democratic leaders drove ahead in preparation for getting a final vote by Saturday on a senate approved legislation authorizing the President to call the national guard and reserve units for a years service

Would Limit Area

Leaders in the fight faced the task of defeating a Republican effort to limit the service of guardsmen and militia to the continental United States—an amendment previously voted down by the senate

Senators anticipating ultimate passage for the mobilization measure the war department disclosure yesterday that revised plans had been prepared to send guard units—some 220,000 men—into active service by January 1941 If the law passes it would send the first group of

ON THE SOUTHEAST COAST OF ENGLAND Aug 15—Germany sent some 500 bombing and fighting planes over the coastline of Britain today seeking out military objectives in the heart of the country

The armada which swarmed over southeastern England during the day was estimated at uncounted hundreds and covered a strip approximately 30 miles wide but reports indicated that other waves of almost equal strength were being thrown across the coast all the way from the Thames estuary to Land's End in the west

During a three-hour afternoon raid the Germans followed the same tactics by which some 150 heavy bombers had been maneuvered across the coast during the morning

While the German fighters engaged the British Hurricane and Spitfire patrols in deadly dogfights from 12 000 to 15 000 feet up the bombers crossed the coast in close formation and flew inland

From the balcony of my hotel I counted six waves of 18 heavy German bombers in less than three minutes

This morning I saw three German planes shot down

This afternoon a direct hit from an anti aircraft gun literally blasted a fourth Messerschmitt out of the sky

I had my field glasses trained on him when a shell struck the plane fairly amidships The plane bounded almost 100 feet broke in two then plunged flaming into the sea A column of water at least 100 yards high shot up

This was just outside my window so close that machine gun bullets and spent fragments of jagged shrapnel were embedded in the walls outside

Two of the barrage balloons protecting the coast came down in flames

I saw a German plane throw a three-second burst of machine gun bullets into one of the bag The balloon fell in five flaming parts and finally crashed behind a headland leaving a tall column of heavy black smoke

At this moment the roar of motors can be heard high in the sky They sound like heavy German bombers on their way home

Matilda' the favorite balloon of the townspeople, still is riding high Matildas one two and three have been knocked down within the last four days

NELSONVILLE O Aug 15—State Sen H T Phillips of Athens wants the legislature to withhold funds from state-supported colleges and universities which allow "un-American and subversive activities

Cutting off the flow of state money would be the quickest way to halt such activities at the schools, Dr Phillips told the Nelsonville Rotary club

'Whenever it can be shown to the satisfaction of constituted authority that such subversive acts are knowingly permitted by the school administration, all financial support by the state should be immediately withheld until such abuses are corrected," he declared

BLITZKRIEG IN 5TH DAY NOW; RAF HITS BACK

Nazi Raiders Attack Northeast England After Rather Peaceful Night.

By The Associated Press

LONDON Aug 15—Far-extending lines of German bombers, protected by a skirmish front of fighters, kept up waves of attacks on Britain's shore from southeast to southwest and felt out a comparatively new zone with great activity on the northeast today in the fifth successive day of air assault

Ten of the raiders were reported shot down in today's far-flung battles six over the southeastern coast three over a northeastern town and one over Scotland

While Britain struck ferociously with a midnight to dawn shower of bombs on 100 miles of German held French coast from Calais to Le Havre after a night of comparative quiet in England the Germans sent swarms of aircraft which engaged in miles high battles over the southeast coast

One southeast coast town reported its fiercest air fight of the war when long streams of bombers came filtering in at their targets

Two battles were fought high above another southeast town one with about 80 planes engaged in land the other over the water with about 30 taking part Five German bombers were sent spinning down in these encounters

Press association reports from the northeast told of widespread enemy air activity

In the southwest other German aircraft were seeking out new targets

Gun for Chutists

In the midlands and Scotland farmers armed with shotguns and troops in armored cars drew tighter nets thrown about thickly wooded sections where the finding of three score parachutes caused fears of lurking parachute troops

Observers reported that the bombers engaged off the southwest coast probably were Dorniers Germany's heaviest following up a spotting flight made over that region earlier in the morning

The German airforce heretofore reluctant to use these big bombers now was believed to be throwing them into the battle for Britain

At the same time authoritative quarters acknowledged a rapid advance of Italian forces in far-off British Somaliland and the home guard troops and police continued efforts to explain the mysterious appearance of parachutes in the midlands and Scotland and track down any parachutists who may have used them

Italians Advance

The Italians in Somaliland were admitted to have made an advance 'more rapid than expected' along the coastal road from Zeila toward Berbera despite yesterday's naval bombardments and were said to be about 60 miles west of the capital and chief port Berbera

At least 80 planes were believed by observers to have taken part in one southeast coast battle fought so high it took one pilot whose plane was sent spiralling into a field 15 minutes to drift to the sea in his billowing parachute

Probably 30 planes participated in another battle over the channel

At least four planes were sent crashing or were forced to land in this short 15 minute combat The bombers struck suddenly, and in a few minutes the deadly "bump' of bombs could be heard inland

Battles Widespread

The press association also reported "widespread enemy air activity off the northeast coast," and over a southwest coast town yet another half-hour battle, engaging "about 30 planes," developed.

This was described as "the fiercest fight this town has seen," with "planes falling out of the sky," some in flames.

Cannon shells and machine-gun bullets spattered the streets, and the planes shook the housetops with their roar.

Meters Yielding Funds at Rate of $1,000 a Month

Parking meter collections for the two and one half day period ending yesterday totaled $80 11 bringing receipts for the first 10 days of the meters operation to $325 71 City Auditor Elmer Shaw reported today

While the collection made yesterday was the smallest that has been made thus far officials pointed out that the period during which the nickels were accumulating in the meters was only a little over two days the last collection having been made late Saturday

Average for 10 Days

Figures compiled by Mr Shaw show that the 103 meters have taken in on an average of 32 cents a day for the first 10 days and on the basis of these figures city officials estimate receipts from the meters will amount to nearly $1 000 a month The city now is renting the meters on a one-year basis and the first payment amounting to approximately $360 is to be made next month

Officials estimate that if the city decides to keep the meters at the end of the one-year rental period the years collection will pay the rental and purchase price of the meters and still leave approximately $6 000 in the meter fund which can be transferred to the general fund

Busiest Meter Zone

If the meters are purchased the only expense after the first year will be for maintenance and repair

The largest single collections yesterday were made from two adjacent meters on the south side of West Center street midway from Marion to Prospect streets tabulations made by Mr Shaw indicate Both of these meters yielded $1 25 indicating that the two parking spaces were paid for continuously during the two and one-half days

WILLKIE HEADS FOR INDIANA

To Fly to Scene of Acceptance Speech Today; Views on Draft Awaited.

By The Associated Press

COLORADO SPRINGS Colo Aug 15 — Wendell L Willkie will fly late today to Indiana where in his acceptance address Saturday he is expected to disclose for the first time his views on military conscription

The Republican nominee arranged to address a crowd at the Kokomo City airport (about 5 30 p m Marion time) during a brief stop his chartered plane was scheduled to arrive in Indianapolis at about 9 p m (Marion time) and he then will motor to Rushville Ind, the home town of Mrs Willkie

Goes to Printer

The acceptance address which Willkie will deliver Saturday at Elwood Ind his own home town, probably will cover the general range of campaign issues as well as conscription He gave the address a last minute going over yesterday and sent it to the printer

On the eve of his departure from his vacation hotel Willkie renewed his demand that the Democratic national committee return funds paid for advertising in party campaign books and suggested creation of 'an impartial board' to enforce election laws

The nominee said at his press conference he believed the question of 'machine political control' would be a major one in the presidential campaign Then in response to questions he named foreign policy and national defense as the two top issues

Aid to Great Britain short of war and a demand for a revitalization of defense were understood to be among the candidate's approaches to those two questions

Industry Important

Willkie was expected to emphasize particularly his belief that the problem of national defense is intermeshed with that of industrial production

While the candidate has given no public statement of his stand on conscription, some of his callers have indicated he would approve the idea.

Willkie reported yesterday that Gen. Hugh Johnson, who favors conscription, had taken one of his "particular problems" in the preparation of his acceptance address. Other advisers included L. J. Taber, national grange master.

TERRIFIC RAID MAY BE SIGNAL FOR INVASION

Famous London Airport Is Bombed; Fighting Rages Over Nearby Docks.

By The Associated Press

At least 1 000—perhaps thousands—of Nazi warplanes stormed England today bombing the great London airport at Croydon only eight miles from Charing Cross, and fighting a terrific air battle with RAF planes over London's Tilbury docks

London's millions clearly heard the chatter of anti-aircraft fire and lifted tumultuous cheers as crouching in doorways they saw RAF spitfires and hurricane fighting planes swarm up to give battle.

Other phalanxes of Nazi raiders, flying in solid wedges of up to 100 planes each, lashed at the English channel defenses from Land's End to the Thames estuary.

No accurate estimate of the number of planes involved could be made but it was apparently the biggest mass assault of the war

The official news agency DNB, said Nazi airmen were sweeping the lower Thames—on the path which might be used for a cross-channel troop invasion—threatening all British military plants with destruction

15 Miles from London

The Tilbury docks, part of the vast system wharves and giant storehouses stretching from storied Limehouse far down the Thames, lie 15 miles from the heart of London

A single Nazi armada was reported so big that it covered a strip 30 miles wide

A dispatch by NDB, official German news agency, said clouds of anti-aircraft fire were seen over London—indicating that Nazi raiders were flying over the empire's capital itself The news agency said it was not known whether bombs were dropped

While lacking direct confirmation from London, the Nazi report was quite possible because of of British censorship restrictions blacking out' the names of cities and towns under attack

It apparently was the biggest mass onslaught since Hitler turned on the full violence of his aerial might a week ago today

The British government said 65 Nazi raiders were destroyed up to five o'clock this afternoon (11 a m Marion time) Loss of seven British fighter planes was acknowledged

Droning over one area of the southeast coast came groups estimated to total 500 planes Other waves of almost equal strength were reported striking up and down the coast from the Thames estuary to Land's End

It was believed possible that the terrific assault signalled the opening gun of the long threatened attempt to invade England

Today, according to London sources, was 'Der Tag' set by Hitler for the conquest of England

Spread-eagling the island kingdom on a schedule that read like a tourist's itinerary, the Nazi raiders struck at the great trans-Atlantic shipping port of Southampton, Newcastle Aberdeen, Scotland, the huge Vickers Armstrong armament works at Hepburn, the Hawkinge airport 10 miles west of Dover and other vital military centers.

Use Big Bombers

The use of the huge Dornier bombers indicated that the Germans were either going "all out" to make good their threat of blasting England to ruins, or that they were forced to draw on their reserves as a result of RAF raids last night on Nazi bases along the channel.

MOBILIZATION OF GUARD NEAR AS BILL PASSES

House Approval About Clears Way for Calling 396,000 Men to Colors.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug 16—Overwhelming house approval of the national guard mobilization bill cleared the way today for the calling of an estimated 396,000 officers and men for a year's service.

Passage of the measure by 232 to 124 late yesterday left only the mobilization of the guard's 18 divisions only two steps away from reality—the senate approval, probably in some minor respects, of the legislation in precisely the form it passed the house and then President Roosevelt must sign it into law.

Italy Blamed In Bombing of Two Greek Warships

By The Associated Press

ATHENS Aug 16—A high authority said here tonight the commanders of two Greek destroyers bombed by warplanes today had reported by radio to the navy ministry that the attacking planes were Italian.

The government carefully refrained from any comment insisting that the planes were of unknown nationality.

Nevertheless the high authority said the officers of the two destroyers, the Vasilefs Georgios I and Vasilissa Olga crafts of 1,350 tonnage had carefully watched the planes through field glasses and reported an absolute identification.

Leaders Silent

The government was expected to continue to preserve silence lest any statement imperil Greek neutrality at a time when the situation between Greece and Italy is growing hourly more critical.

The two destroyers were scheduled to arrive at Piraeus the port of Athens tonight.

The destroyers according to reports reaching Athens escaped damage by zigzagging at full speed. They did not open fire on the planes.

It also was reported that a Greek merchantship identified as the Erin was bombed by "unknown" warplanes while lying in an unidentified Greek harbor.

The air attacks came amid mounting tension in the relations between Greece and Italy following bitter Italian press campaign against the little kingdom.

Virginio Gayda authoritative Fascist editor wrote today in Il Giornale D'Italia that the torpedoing of the cruiser Helle yesterday was part of a British plot to precipitate a crisis between Italy and Greece. The editor disclaimed any Italian responsibility for the sinking of the ship by an unidentified submarine.)

Diplomatic observers expressed belief that the secret attacks left Greece virtually with an undeclared war on her hands.

Officials however declared the government had not yet taken any defensive military measures because it felt that the power which was secretly attacking Greek ships was seeking just such provocation.

All Greek ships were under orders to remain in port.

The Chief Executive made the announcement at his press conference but cautioned reporters repeatedly not to tie it up with any speculation about the release of American destroyers to Great Britain.

Voluntarily, Mr Roosevelt authorized the following direct quotation on the negotiations for bases:

"The United States government is holding conversations with the government of the British empire with regard to the acquisition of naval and air bases by the United States for American hemisphere defense with specific reference to the Panama canal."

The President also said that he had neither heard of news stories which he also would make public, specific statement, which was:

SURPRISE

Mock Wedding Turns Out to Be Real Thing

I never saw the girl again but recently received a letter in which she informed me she was actually my wife Picone said in court in asking an annulment.

Mother Nature's Real Enemy for Ohio Guardsmen

By The Associated Press

CAMP McCOY Wis Aug 16—Here for three weeks to train and engage in mock battle with troops of other states nearly 10,000 Ohio national guardsmen have found they must combat a more real and formidable foe in nature.

First there is the sandy soil excellent for the dairy pasture lands strawberries scrub oak and pine trees but tough going for marching men and worse for trucks and motorized equipment which bogs down hopelessly if a driver gets off the roadway.

Burrs Are Plentiful

Then there are prickly burrs of the dune grass that flourishes in the sand. The stickers have a diabolical way of getting inside pantlegs into bedding and blankets. And there are billions of them.

Also in uncountable numbers are grasshoppers which jump in waves from beneath each footfall in company streets and training grounds of the 65,000 officers and men engaged in this largest maneuver ever held in the central United States.

There are mosquitos pronounced non-malarial by army surgeons but voracious, and occasional snakes from bogs and swamps.

But worse than all of these for the ordinary foot soldier are the distances between units and training areas occupied by battalions regiments and brigades.

For instance almost a score of square miles are alloted to the infantry artillery cavalry and special troops of the 38th Division. That means miles of hauling water for drinking, cooking and bathing, miles of marching for combined unit training and weary distances to the nearest settlement of Warren, Wis., and farther to Tomah or Sparta for off duty recreation.

No Hitch Hiking

Since the army is enforcing strictly the Wisconsin law against hitch hiking, it is Shank's mare for any doughboy who wants to go to town, unless he is able to cadge a ride on an army truck bound on an errand from his outfit and most of these are too heavily laden with supplies to take on passengers.

The Ohio units spent the first week in camp completing the housing, organization and small unit training of the troops and during the second week took temporary on a regimental basis goals and divisional [illegible]

WILLKIE BACK IN HOME STATE

Will Go to Elwood, Ind., Tomorrow for Acceptance Speech.

RUSHVILLE Ind Aug 16—Wendell L Willkie's other home town' gave him a noisy midnight welcome when he returned to rest today before formally accepting the Republican presidential nomination.

The streets were thronged as Willkie and his wife who was born here arrived at the head of an automobile caravan from Indianapolis. They had flown to the Indiana capital from Colorado Springs Colo where the nominee spent the last month getting ready for his campaign.

Tomorrow noon the Willkies will go to the nominee's birthplace—Elwood—for a rally which party leaders hope will draw a quarter of a million persons. Willkie will deliver his keynote speech giving special attention to his views on national defense and the foreign situation.

But until then informality is the watchword. Willkie avoided any speech-making at Indianapolis and Rushville last night but where ever a dozen persons were gathered at crossroads he popped up from his automobile, greatly waved his stiff straw hat and flung out his arms in greeting.

A crowd at the Indianapolis municipal airport after waiting through a hot evening until 9 p m (CST) broke through police lines when Willkie's chartered plane landed. Official delegations greeted the candidate Mrs Willkie was given a huge sheaf of red roses and police cleared a path to an open car.

Once into the open country—past cornfields which have baked without rain for six weeks—the entourage found the old National road (now U S highway 40) lighted by occasional flares. They gave an old-fashioned "torchlight parade appearance to the scene.

Willkie made no official engagements for today preferring to talk informally with old friends and with Indiana Republican officials.

NAZIS REPORT GREAT DAMAGE IN NEW ATTACK

Say 143 RAF Planes Downed in Raids on Strategic Centers

By The Associated Press

BERLIN Aug 16—The German air force Thursday the sixth day of its mass aerial siege of England heavily damaged British channel ports aircraft factories and armament works and sowed mines in numerous harbors early today the German high command reported.

Recapitulating the results of yesterday's heaviest raids of all time the high command said at least 143 British planes were downed 106 of them in air battles and 21 barrage balloons. Thirty-two German planes were acknowledged lost.

(The British reported 169 German planes were shot down yesterday against 34 British craft.)

Returning to the attack during the night German planes were reported to have inflicted new blows on harbor facilities on the great Portland naval base on the southeast coast Scarborough Middlesbrough Bridlington and Hull all on the northeast coast factories and armament works at the great industrial center of Birmingham in the midlands and numerous flying fields in south southeast and central England.

Sub Claims Success

A German submarine was reported to have sunk two armed British merchant ships totalling 14,000 tons.

British planes carrying out their nightly raids on western Germany failed to cause "noteworthy damage" the communique said.

The daily communique said 106 of the British planes were destroyed in air fights and the remainder either on the ground or by German anti-aircraft batteries. In addition the high command reported 21 barrage balloons were shot down.

The communique acknowledged 32 Nazi planes did not return but said the German Red Cross plane service rescued nine German and one British airman in the English channel.

Numerous British harbors were reported mined last night.

The high command communique said one submarine sank two armed British merchant ships totalling 14,000 tons.

German minesweepers were said to have shot down four of 10 Spitfires in one formation.

Germans stressed the significance of blows against Britain's air power on the ground—blows against warplanes and their airdromes—as they viewed the Nazi aerial offensive with mounting satisfaction.

They recalled such tactics paralyzed the Polish air force in the

GREAT FIRES ROAR IN CITY'S SUBURBS, GERMANY REPORTS

By The Associated Press

Great fires roared in London's suburbs late today, the German news agency, DNB, reported, as waves of Nazi warplanes fought a terrific air battle with British RAF ships over the British capital.

"Everywhere smoke was rising. Everywhere hits and bomb craters were visible," DNB said, in a running account of what appeared to be the biggest aerial battle in the history of warfare.

The news agency asserted that sky-blackening waves of Nazi bombers and fighters "have breached the air barrier and cleared the air over London.

If true, the heart of the British empire apparently lay at the mercy of new waves of dive bombers which DNB said still were streaking across the channel.

"The wind is driving a black veil of smoke across the slums of London's east end," DNB said.

While cable communication with London remained ominously silent regarding the air raid, dispatches from Berlin said huge explosions from Nazi bombs were observed at Purfleet and Barking in the British capital's densely-populated east end.

Big gunpowder magazines are located at Purfleet.

An estimated 2,500 Nazi warplanes—twice as many as in yesterday's juggernaut smash at the island kingdom—were seen earlier speeding at great height across the English coast.

Stock Market Closes

The Dow-Jones ticker in New York said the London stock market closed during the air-raid, but later trading resumed and the market closed steadier.

Authorized Nazis in Berlin said tersely that a mighty fleet of German bombers headed for the British capital this afternoon.

The brief Berlin dispatch explained the mystery of an interrupted broadcast by a London radio which gave the first indication that the metropolis with its teeming millions was being attacked.

The London broadcasting station GSV went off the air suddenly at 5:11 p m (London time).

NBC listeners in New York heard air raid alarm sirens screaming in the background of the program which was being broadcast at the time.

Then the air was silent—an ominous silence.

This coincided with a long break in the click-clack of the automatic telegraph machine bringing news direct from London to the offices of The Associated Press in New York a machine that is seldom silent for more than a few minutes.

When London came through again at 11:30 a m (Marion time) after a gap of 30 minutes it was to transmit a story not connected with anything that might be happening in London, indicating rigorous censorship.

DNB called the Titanic struggle a battle "of the greatest dimension" with the British numerically outnumbering the Nazis and "employing everything at their disposal" in ward off the German raiders.

"Like mists over a swamp, so the fighters drawn over grey London," the news agency said.

"Everywhere you look, it seen (British [illegible] and Spitfires. In [illegible] the sharp contours of [illegible]) Messerschmitts chase by.

"Everywhere are flares, dazzle. In between, guns seen in the air bulging parachutes and the yellowish puffs of smoke of anti-aircraft and artillery."

DNB said the number of planes falling out of the sky in the raging battle "must be enormous."

Time and again smoke columns of crashing planes are seen" the news agency's account said, adding that Nazi battle reconnaissance planes were continually flashing back reports of the progress of the fight to Berlin.

The first German bomber formation returning to their bases from the still blazing conflict said numerous hits had been scored on air bases in the western environs of London setting big fires in hangars and barracks.

At 2 p m (Marion time) The Associated Press office in New York was still in contact with its London bureau but the British censor was not permitting transmission of anything regarding this afternoon's London raid.

Other messages came through with fair regularity but at that time nothing regarding the air-raid had been received for three hours and 20 minutes.

At noon (Marion time) The Associated Press offices in New York had not received from its London office a single dispatch describing today's fighting for one hour and 20 minutes.

The thundering new waves of Nazi raiders bombed the island kingdom from Scotland to Cornwall, with Hitler now beginning to reveal the long-hidden secret of his full aerial strength for the first time.

In some quarters, it was considered possible that the Nazi Fuehrer hoped to blast Britain into surrender without even sending troops across the channel for a land invasion.

Battle with Everything

Between 4,000 and 5,000 British and German planes probably were engaged in the terrific conflict. The British, with about 1,000 first-line defense planes, were

Indians Nose Out Sox, Reds Blanked, Dodgers Hurt by Loss of Rees

Pennant Race Unchanged As American Leaders Win, Nationals Lose.

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Dodgers are putting on some sort of celebration for old Freddie Fitzsimmons tonight, but no one feels like celebrating

The Dodgers a month ago, with Ducky Medwick in the outfield and Wee Reese at shortstop felt they were a positive shoo in for the pennant

Now Medwick is hardly hitting the size of his collar, the Dodgers are in second place and Reese is enroute to Louisville victim of a broken bone in his left heel which probably will keep him out the rest of the season

Double Trouble

So with the loss of yesterday's game 4 2 to the Phils and the loss of their star shortstop who fractured his foot while sliding into second in the seventh in ning the horrible spectacle of third or even fourth place stares them in the face

While the Dodgers were losing all their dreams the league leading Cincinnati Reds were simply losing a ball game 1 0 to the Chicago Cubs

In the National league's only other offering Lefty Joe Sullivan of the Boston Bees blanked the Giants for eight innings in a superb four hit relief job while his mates were walloping three Giant pitchers for a 12 1 victory

The Yankees made the third metropolitan rout of the day by absorbing an 11-1 shellacking at the hands of the Boston Red Sox

The Sox slugged out 14 hits off four Yankee hurlers to win one game of the series snap the Yankee victory streak at six games and break their own four game losing run

Tribe Gets 15 Hits

The Tribe collected 15 hits off pitcher Thornton Lee as it set down the Chicago White Sox 5 to 4 yesterday although it was unable to bunch these blows effectively

Five of those hits were doubles one of them off the bat of Lou Boudreau scoring Roy Weatherly with the winning run in the eighth inning

The victory—credited to Johnny Allen who replaced starter Al Milnar in the seventh—was Cleveland's fourth straight and kept their two game lead over second-place Detroit intact

Milnar gave up eight hits walked three and allowed all the Chicago runs while Allen yielded two safe blows in the final frames Only 5 000 turned out for yesterday's game

Newsom Wins 15th

Buck Newsom had a field day in lending the Tigers to a 5-2 win over the Browns He pitched six hit ball and doubled in the sixth to put his mates ahead He fanned nine

The last place Athletics ganged up on Walter Masterson of the Senators in the eighth inning for four runs and a 6 5 decision in the second game of a double header Skinny Sidney Hudson scattered 14 hits to win the opener 9 4

The Dodgers had company along baseball's wailing wall for the Pittsburgh Pirates found themselves without the services of Al Lopez their spark plug catcher who injured his hand in a game at St Louis Wednesday night He will be out about two weeks

A machine has been invented that is said to tell whether a person's hair is his own or a wig this article that said seems important

On Sidelines

Adding to the woes of the Brooklyn Dodgers was the incident yesterday which resulted in Hal Peewee Reese above suffering an injury which may keep him on the sidelines the remainder of the season

Sunday Benefit Program Planned by Softball Club

The highly touted Columbus Colored A C softball team will return to Garfield park Sunday for a benefit doubleheader with the Marion Merchants All proceeds of the game will go t Bill Everly who was injured several months ago while pitching for the Merchants

The capital city delegation features Herb Marshall celebrated speed ball artist who pitched two no-hit games in one afternoon last year at Garfield park The Merchants defeated Marshall 5 4 several weeks ago with Bill Everly handcuffing the heavy hitting A C s The visitors took the second game 11-2 with Marshall again doing the chucking

More than 1 500 fans were delighted that day with the colorful playing of the A C players If the A C s are enjoying enough of a lead they sometimes take all of their players off the field with the exception of the pitcher and catcher

Either Bill Everly or Ben Pifed will take the mound in the opener and Harold Millisor will probably work the nightcap for the Merchants The A C s have won 28 of 33 games The first game will be called at 1 15 p m Merchant players are requested to report at the diamond at 12 30 p m

DICKEY'S BROTHER IS SOLD TO CHICAGO, MAY FACE BIG BILL

Protege and Kin of Famous Backstop Prefers To Play Against New York.

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY Aug 16— It may be brother against brother when the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox tangle in the American league next season Manager George Dickey said today he would rather play against his famous brother Bill than a

George known to his teammates as Skeeter as a rookie just like Bill He was sold the White Sox yesterday by the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas league who paid no big ages price they ever put out for a player when they bought him six years ago from Portland of the Pacific Coast league

I don't care if any club in either league Bill or the other said the 23 year old backstop

But what about Bill's being with the same club as Bill

Naw I'd rather be playing against the same club as Bill

Skeeter said competition would be more fun might be an edge in it

George once held out with the Yanks but his weakness at the plate robbed him of a full time job just as it did him also with the Cubs and Boston Red Sox

This year however the slapping 6 foot 4 inch husky has found his batting eye He's coming a lusty 319 behind Bes average in the Texas league His bugaboo aim and his experimenting of pitchers making him one of the finest receivers in the circuit

I've just been lucky and got a lot of breaks said Skeet about his improvement at the plate

Thought for a Blitzkrieg

NO ONE ever will know how much damage is being done in the new war—not only property damage which can be repaired but scars on minds and bodies which can't be repaired

Everybody knows though that Germany's newest contribution to the knowledge of humanity is how to do more damage in short order than men ever were able to inflict on one another before The initiative which Germans seized in the lethal arts during the World war has not been taken away from them they have advanced the art of slaughter as an instrument of national policy more than any other people of modern times As though to show their superiority in this branch of ingenuity they have taken airplanes invented by Americans and tanks invented by the British and used them with such deadly effect there is now a name for the revolutionary kind of warfare Germany uses—blitzkrieg—lightning war

It is war in which nothing is spared in which everything is subject to destruction In which it is as essential to destroy human dignity as to drop bombs on cities Everything must be done to crush the enemy all resources of all kinds of men must be brought to bear on his annihilation A lie or an act of treachery is as legitimate as a bursting inferno of steel splinters or a machine-gun raking a residential street The way to prove the right to be dominant is to kill and destroy To be dominant over what? What might Germany have accomplished during all these years had its energies and resources been used to make itself dominant over the blood lust of its own militarists!

Put Down the Blackjack, Boys

WHEN the author of a law tells what it means his word's final Sen Hatch of New Mexico says his law makes distribution of Democratic campaign booklets illegal Previously he had said his law makes division of campaign funds among various committees to evade the $3 000 000 maximum illegal which had been the Republican party's contribution to Hatch law interpretation

Sen Hatch thinks the Democrats should ditch their famous campaign books and stay within the spirit as well as the letter of the laws which bear his name Citizens generally will agree Not being Philadelphia lawyers they don't pretend to be able to understand what can and can't be done with laws but they do understand that the two Hatch laws were an attempt to make politics a little cleaner

Because they understand also that soliciting advertising from suckers for a campaign book which no one ever looks at is nothing but a legalistic workout on aforesaid suckers with a blackjack they would be deeply impressed if Democrats would do what Sen Hatch who happens to one of them suggests they should do They don't think for a minute politicians are going to turn lily-white but neither do they think politicians would be smart to proclaim to the world they have nothing but scorn for lily-whiteness

Safe on the Play

HARRY BRIDGES the Pacific coast labor leader who can't shake off suspicions that his intimacies with organized Communism are more than academic will stay in the United States. When the bill to deport him (passed the house last June 19 by 330 to 42) came up for action in a senate immigration subcommittee senators ordered the department of justice to inquire into the case Last time Bridges' critics closed in the department of labor conducted the inquiry finding his spotless Maybe the next time it will be the department of interior One crack at Harry Bridges seems to be the right of every department

Meanwhile Harry is safe as the umpire's pet on a close play at first base Freedom individual rights constitutionality justice civil liberties—everything worth fighting for—have been protected If only Americans could be sure that aliens like Bridges were as interested in saving these things as they are!

Tolerance

THERE is no specific guarantee of tolerance in the Constitution only safeguards against certain standard manifestations of intolerance A man's right to say what he thinks does not assure him a sympathetic audience only the right to try to create one

It is obvious that without a general sense of obligation to concede that the other fellow is sincere in what he has to say the constitutional guarantee of free speech must quickly become meaningless. Unless there were two sides to be talked about, free speech would be aimless.

Thus when persons who express a viewpoint which happens to be unpopular are accused without proof of being reds, trouble makers, democracy haters "fifth columnists" or any of the other slurring words and phrases in current use it is time to run up storm signals over the Bill of Rights.

Americans should be taking special thought of the obligations of tolerance It is one of the things they are preparing to defend, they would be foolish to destroy it in the process.

News Behind the News

Defense Program Snagged on Dispute Over Title to U S Factory Expansion.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON Aug 15 — A new subsurface snag which has not only stalled but is ripping political seams in the national defense program is a demand by government economists that the government take over whatever plant expansion industry effect

Right of the government to title in private expansion fostered for national defense has been explosively advocated by Leon Henderson price economist in the defense commission

Paul Mallon

In meetings with other government officials (some attended by Donald Nelson the defense coordinator) and before executive sessions of the house ways and means committee this vast new revolutionary realm of government title to private business expansion has been opened up by Henderson and his associates

Some business men who heard of it first threw up their hands and then sat on them to await developments before centralizing their full enthusiasm into defense activities

Henderson Logic

The Henderson socializers reason that if an aviation plant expands its plant to fill government orders and is allowed price and tax concessions for swift five year amortization the government has some claim to the expanded portion of the plant at the end of the five-year period Apparently they want title to the depreciated portion not only of plants built under government loan but even those expansions financed by private capital They figure the government will have paid for the plants in the price of the planes

Thus at the end of a five year period the government would own the expanded pieces of all plants doing defense work and presumably the owners would have to buy them back or let the government run them

Spat

Something of an inside spat has developed between the Henderson group and the treasury over procedure The treasury presumably wants a definite decision and ruling on such government claims to be written into the pending amortization excess profits bill The defense commission group wants to leave the question of government right to expand defense properties apparently to future determination Frankly they do not seem to have decided how far they want to go with it

Financing Plan

Under Mr Henderson's hat also is a side phase of the scheme designed to lure capital into the defense program by voluntary enlistment This scheme would change the form of defense contracts so these may be taken by manufacturers to banks for loans to finance plant expansion. The old form failed to pledge sufficient legal assurance for fulfillment of the contract by the government to permit it to be used as collateral for borrowing

The change has been sold to the defense commission on the ground that it would relieve the financing burdens of the reconstruction finance corporation and tap the bulging reservoirs of idle money in banks

Maintaining An Army

It is not the original cost but the upkeep of the trained army under the pending draft bill which will hurt the taxpayers

Congressional debate has touched but lightly on the subject, but the war department has made precise computations of the money needed to keep 400 000 men beginning Oct 1 and 400 000 more next April 1 in addition to the enlarged regular army and National Guard Their figures anticipate a cost of $1 260 a man a year This is the average overall for officer and soldier including allowances subsistence hospitalization gasoline oil recruiting travel transportation field training maintenance of all equipment, and personnel overhead

A little rough arithmetic will bring you to the conclusion that an army of 1 200 000 men will cost about $1 512 000 000 a year

It might prove possible to reduce the per capita cost by 5 per cent through economies in such a large force but even so the department figures the minimum possible per capita is $1 197 This would make the annual cost $1,436 400 000

This computation is substantiated by an official estimate which the department has submitted for a protective mobilization force of approximately 1 200 000 men for the single month of June 1941 The total was $132 724 222 A 12 month total at this rate would be $1 592 690 664

Odds on Nazis

A personal check of the outstanding military and naval authorities made by an administration official showed 60 per cent of the navy and more than 85 per cent of the war department military minds expected the German attack on England to be successful

This is somewhat more favorable to England however than a similar check made by the same official following the fall of France Then 75 per cent of the navy and 90 per cent of the army leaders calculated the odds in favor of Germany

Hoover's Proposal To Help Invaded Nations Analyzed; Seen as Difficult Task.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

MR HOOVER has proposed that the United States intervene in Europe in order to assure supplies of food to some 27 000 000 inhabitants of four nations Norway Holland Belgium and Poland possibly also to some of the 40 000 000 inhabitants of France On the basis of information available to him Mr Hoover describes the situation as follows He says that if Germany allows the four little nations to keep their stocks of food and this years harvest their situation will not begin to be acute until some time in the fall but that their situation will become fatal in the winter and spring next year —as domestic supplies are exhausted

Walter Lippmann

It follows that their situation will become acute immediately only if the occupying German armies draw upon the existing stocks of food and do not allow the invaded nations to use what this summer's harvest produces Mr Hoover does not say whether in fact the Germans have been taking from the existing stocks and from the present harvest But he implies that they have For in the plan which he proposes he stipulates that Germany shall 'furnish an equivalent of any food already taken This would suggest that he believes the German requisitions may make the position in some of these countries very desperate even sooner than the autumn

Control Organization

Mr Hoover's plan calls for the setting up in these four possibly five invaded nations of an adequate control of distribution by a neutral non-governmental organization This of course means an American organization Mr Hoover then defines what he means by an adequate control He does not mean merely, as some may suppose that Americans in these four or five nations shall see to it that food from the United States reaches only the inhabitants of the invaded countries. Mr Hoover means much more than that. He means that the American controllers are to see to it that the occupying German armies take none of the domestic produce For obviously, if the American controllers do not do this, then the equivalent or more, of what is sent in from America may go out to Germany If therefore Mr Hoover's American controllers do not supervise the administration of the whole food supply of these four or five countries, the net result of the vast humanitarian effort would be to finance and facilitate the import of food into Germany by the use of Norwegian Belgian Dutch Polish and American funds

But Mr Hoover's plan does not end with the proposal to establish a control administered by Americans of the relief shipments and of the domestic stocks and the harvests of these four or five nations His plan also requires the American controllers to get back from Germany 'an equivalent of any food already taken" Nor is that all His plan also requires the American controllers to see to it that these four or five invaded nations are able to import food from Russia and the Balkan states —in other words that Germany and Italy do not monopolize all the exportable surpluses of central and eastern Europe

Difficult Proposal

This program as Mr Hoover describes it is no simple undertaking An organization of private citizens is to distribute relief in four or five nations It is to administer the whole food supply—the stocks the harvests, and the imports—of four or five nations. It is to supervise the requisitions of the occupying army in four or five nations It is to prevent the exports of food supplies from four or five nations It is to recover from Germany the equivalent of food from Germany the equivalent of food taken out or consumed by her armies during several months of occupation It is to make sure that four or five prostrate nations are able to buy their proper share as against their conqueror of the exports of Russia, Hungary, Rumania

Only if all these things are done by the American controllers, 'only so long as these guarantees are fulfilled' does Mr Hoover suggest that the British let food ships pass through the blockade It does then seem a bit premature, to say the least for any one to begin talking as if a fine

U. S. Army Reorganized

Soldiers Ride to Battlefields and Wield New Type Weapons

This is one of a series of articles prepared by the National defense Advisory commission to be published in The Star to give its readers a complete picture of the nation's preparedness program

WE have a reorganized and rejuvenated army these days It is made up of smaller, harder-punching units from the squad to the platoon to the company to the regiment then on up to the division through the corps to the field army

Where the old army division (the division is the smallest complete unit which includes all kinds of weapons under one command) of 20 000 men rushed to battle at the speed of 12 miles a day the new divisions can snap toward the enemy at more than 40 miles a day whenever motor transportation is made available And the soldiers won't have flat feet when they get there, because they ride to work in trucks

There will be fewer men to a division only about 13 000 but with new weapons these men will be able to sling more pounds of assorted steel at the enemy in less time than the old divisions could

In the new division the commander has as his direct aides an infantry general and an artillery general Through these men the orders will be transmitted down through the regiments the battalions that make up the regiments the companies that make up the battalions to the platoons and eventually to the squads where the corporal will indicate to our recruit John Smith, what is necessary

Weapons for the Infantry

The 13 000 John Smiths in the new streamlined divisions will find an attractive array of weapons to choose from In the first place there will be 4500 new M1 rifles for one of these streamlined divisions of infantry These new semi-automatic rifles, weighing only nine pounds will pump out two to three times as many shots per minutes as the old rifles would One of the prime jobs facing the army and in turn the national defense advisory commission is where and how to turn out rifles fast enough to equip these new troops And that problem is being worked out day by day

There are other new weapons There is the 30 caliber automatic rifle or light machine gun, enough like a rifle for a man to pick up and walk away with it There will be about twenty 81 mm mortars and 60 mm mortars for each division A mortar can lob a shell weighing several pounds right to where the enemy is hiding behind a building There will be a supply of eighteen 50 caliber machine guns that can stop anything up to and including light tanks and another eighteen 37 mm antitank guns whose 1½ inch shell will ruin almost any tank that ever clanked In addition the infantry must be supplied with 45 caliber service pistols and a large number of hand grenades to present to nearby enemies

The job facing the nation today is to provide adequate manufacturing facilities to supply those weapons for the existing divisions as rapidly as possible and to deliver them to the new divisions as fast as they are ready for them That calls for special steels for the gun barrels It calls for machines that can convert that steel into weapons And it calls for men who can operate those machines The army knows its needs It is the job of the national defense advisory commission to find out how we fulfill those requirements without crowding and confusion But that list above is only what a modern infantry regiment can more or less carry over its shoulder in the way of weapons

There are also fast modern tanks which carry substantial armor and machine guns. We will have small ones capable of galloping over good roads at thirty-five miles an hour and moving over rough ground at a good clip And there will be big ones capable of slugging it out with anything that comes along Under new contracts these steel turtles are being turned out in the middle west The steel industry has already told the advisory commission that preparations are under way to increase production of light armor plate to meet requirements.

Ammunition Needs

That more or less settles the weapons that the infantry has handy But these modern agile war machines can dispose of a surprising quantity of ammunition in a short time For example the M1 rifle with a good man on the trigger end can fire over 130 shots in five minutes A machine gun can loose about 2 500 shots in the direction of the enemy in the same time So it is evident that there will have to be considerable expansion of the nations ammunition facilities in a hurry And this in turn will call for more powder plants and stepping up of production of brass shell cases and steel-jacket bullets All this has to be done without creating bottle-necks without waste motion And that's the way it's being done

"'Napoleon' wanted to escort me home, but I came with the donkey. HE was TWO fellows!"

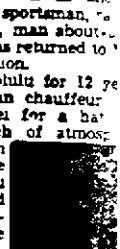
BILLY FLEISCHMANN, famous in and Manhattan Island day as a sportsman, ra'ter first-nighter bon-vivant, man about and all that sort of business, has returned to York for what he calls a vacation.

He has been living in Honolulu for 12 ye He came in with an Hawaiian chauffeur wears what looked like a lei for a hat which we suspect is a touch of atmos suggested by Billy to keep him reminded of his adopted home in the Pacific The Honolulu Chamber of Commerce should pay Billy a salary as an ambassador of good will He boosts Hawaii with all the fervor of a native



Damon Runy

On arriving back in New York the first thing Billy did was to get himself an apartment up on Riverside Drive and the second thing was to have his man lay out his dinner clothes. He was somewhat pained to learn that gentlemen are known to dine in New York public p nowadays in workaday bibs and tuckers Billy's time that custom would have frowned on He was also a little disappo that he got here at a season when firs' nigh is scarcely the vogue

However he has been visiting all his haunts that are still in existence with spe reference to the Colony restaurant, where used to hang out with his onetime pal the Col Jake Ruppert brewer and baseball magn The fact that Billy now has to do much of navigating in a wheelchair does not detract fr his activity or his pleasure in viewing life says the only thing about New York that re startles him is the way he keeps meeting grownup sons and daughters of his form associates

BILLY is of the famous Cincinnati ye making family brother of the affable F and cousin of the once celebrated head of clan Julius a great business executive civic leader who died suddenly in Florida s years ago Harry Richman the singer now ow the place on West avenue on Miami Beach t Julius built as a winter home in the days wh the Miamis were on the boom and he was pl ing polo down there

IT IS a coincidence that Billy returns to big town as the New York Yankees are be sold again Twenty five years ago he wa close friend of John J McGraw and a terr Giants fan He not only rarely missed a ho game but often took road trips with the Gia Billy saw most of the games from the press t and was a great favorite with the baser scribes He was scarcely aware of the existe of the American league Yankees, until he " that Frank Farrell, the owner, was willing sell his franchise

Why don't you buy that ball club?" B asked Jake Ruppert You like baseball

I wouldn't mind if I had somebody to i it for me replied Jake

I've got just the man for you" said Bi

HE introduced Col Jake to Capt. Til agreed to p up $200 000 apiece and buy the Yanks, now s ing for a price said to be over $3 000 000

Billy turned Yankee fan, but his heart mained with the Giants. ## Jelly Day Set To Stock Hospital's "Pantry Shelf"

The two to four looking jars of jelly in the shelf of the Hospital Pantry Shelf in the southeast corner of the National City Bank & Trust Co look mighty appetizing but lonesome

The Pantry Shelf in case you haven t heard is the improvised cupboard established in the alcove at the bank by the Woman s Board of the Marion City hospital in the interest of the hospital

It is the hope of the women that the pantry shelf will be filled with jellies and preserves during the canning season for use at the hospital throughout the coming winter months

Jellies and preserves play an important part in the meals served at the City hospital and in many instances jelly is a must on the diet for patients

Members of the board are hoping housewives of Marion and vicinity will include in their list of good deeds the contribution of a glass of jelly or jam to the hospital shelf during the canning days

With this in mind they have designated Friday Aug 26 as jelly day and are asking the women of the city and county to cooperate

Contributions also may be taken to the hospital or if it is impossible for the donor to get either to the pantry shelf or hospital she is asked to call some member of the board

W Jordan director of ... Hospital Service as... of Columbus was ... ne meeting night and ... se organizing the Delaware and Crestline insurance plans

Mr Jordan said the Delaware and Crestline setups will work cooperatively with the Central association which is organizing hospital service work throughout this section of Ohio The Central association is a non-profit insurance association in which all 10 Columbus hospitals co-operate he said

Mr Jordan said the Crestline and Delaware hospitals will provide hospitalization service for persons subscribing to the plan Subscribers will pay monthly membership fees in the association and the association in turn will pay hospital bills for the subscribers Arrangements are being made to take group enrollments in both the Crestline and Delaware communities within the next few weeks those attending last nights meeting reported

Mr Jordan said the benefit plan is being widely adopted by hospitals since the hospitals operate the plan themselves as a non-profit organization In communities where the system is in operation residents have an opportunity to spread hospital risks over a large group and the hospitals receive payment from the association for a large percentage of patients thus reducing their accounts receivable and eliminating much of the operating loss due to uncollectable accounts Mr Jordan stated

Attending the conference last night in addition to Mr Jordan were R V Snyder member of the board of trustees of Crestline Emergency hospital D M Marriott president of the board of Jane Case hospital Miss Kate E Croake superintendent of Crestline Emergency hospital and Mrs Snyder

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly when they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

RAINS LITTLE HELP TO OHIO

Soaking Downpour Needed by State's Crops Parched by Drouth.

By The Associated Press

Rain fell sparingly in scattered sections of Ohio Wednesday, bringing slight relief to parched crops suffering heavily from an extended dry spell.

Agronomists generally throughout the state stressed the need for a soaking downpour to make up deficiencies for July and the first half of August. Hardest hit were the western, central and southern districts.

In the central Ohio area Dr. C. J. Willard of the Ohio State university agronomy department described the current drought as the worst he had ever seen and said the crop loss was already so great that a heavy rain wouldn't do much good.

Corn, Ohio's major crop, is suffering most from the dry weather, agricultural experts reported. Soybeans are turning brown and fruits are feeling the lack of moisture.

An increase of chinch bugs and corn earworms was reported in the Cleveland area where .86 inch of rain in July was 2.49 below normal.

New Trial Sought

Motion for a new trial on the grounds of newly discovered evidence has been filed by Tommy Foster Dye in his common pleas court action against the industrial commission of Ohio to share in workmens compensation funds. He contends that one member of the jury which early this summer returned a verdict against him could not see and had one of the fellow jurors sign the verdict thinking that it was in favor of the plaintiff. He also avers that another juror who stated he was not an employer or contributor to the state industrial commission was at the time a partner in a business employing other people. The new trial motion was prepared for Mr. Dye by Emil D. Smith, R. N. Larrimer and Mouser & Mouser.

FBI ASKS TO EXHUME BODY IN DEATH PROBE

Husband Convinced Nurse Was Slain on Lake Boat.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15 — While U. S. Marshal Benjamin Mozer of Nome, Alaska, sped toward Cleveland today to join the investigation of his wife's mysterious death in Lake Erie, federal bureau of investigation agents said they would ask his permission to exhume her body for post mortem examination.

Before boarding a plane at Seattle, Mozer said he was convinced his wife had been slain and robbed.

The body of the 53 year-old former nurse washed ashore at Geneva-on-the-Lake July 31 but was not identified until after officers of the steamship Secandgee, which she boarded July 29 for a trip to Buffalo, reported her missing Tuesday.

Frank E. Elliott of Cleveland, a brother, established identification from clothing and jewelry taken from the body before burial in Ashtabula county.

There is no question of suicide as she was not of that temperament, Mozer said at Seattle where he arrived last week end after taking federal prisoners to Portland, Ore.

I feel certain she was slain. I can't understand how a passenger could drop out of sight on a steamer and not be missed until two weeks later.

All the circumstances as reported to me sound highly fantastic and I intend to get to the very bottom of the case.

hope today with the torpedo sinking of a Greek warship by an unidentified submarine amid Italian newspaper threats of an attack on Greece.

In London, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons:

Although we are very much stronger than we were in May, the danger of invasion has by no means passed away.

Telephonic communication between Athens and Rome was severed after the Greek government announced the sinking of the 2,115 ton light cruiser Helle.

Premier John Metaxas immediately summoned chiefs of the Greek army, navy and air force.

Greece has a full guarantee of military aid from Great Britain in the event her independence is threatened. From a British standpoint the plunging of Greece into a belligerent role would provide closer naval and air bases for a direct attack on Italy.

An authoritative British source said today no British submarine was in the vicinity of Tinos, the Greek island off which the Greek cruiser was sunk today. This source added that Italian submarines were known to have been operating there.

Bulgaria too was involved. The Rome radio broadcast a report from Moscow that Greece had appealed to Russia to intercede in Greece's crisis with Italy.

Russia reportedly was asked to prevent Bulgaria from seizing on the Greek-Italian crisis to press demands for the return of Greek owned Thrace and an outlet to the Aegean sea.

Back for Fifth Day

After a night of wives of German bombers turned to the task in Britain for the fifth successive day of intensive raids striking at Bristol and Lympne and hitting at bases in Belgium in defense in the vicinity of Dover.

DNB, the official German news agency, said the Nazi raiders penetrated British defenses without loss in series of night fights.

With still no sign of a cross-channel invasion, the London press taunted Nazis for failure to carry out the heralded Der Tag conquest of the British isles by mid-August.

During the morning hours the fifth day old "round-the-clock" assault was marked by comparatively small-scale dashes over the southeast coast with at least five German bombers reported shot down.

Simultaneously the British press association reported widespread enemy activity off the northeast coast of England.

The skies were cloudless but in the area of the south coast the German planes flew so high that spectators on the ground could see little of the action except for an occasional shell burst or plane screaming down into a dogfight.

80 in One Battle

About 80 planes fought in one battle while 30 others blasted at each other with cannon and machine gun high over the channel.

Said the British Press association:

"Aug. 15 the date on which Hitler was to make his triumphal march into London is here.

"In a few hours it will be gone with Britain still mistress of her own fate of the seas and of the air around her coast."

Nazi blamed poor flying conditions for the overnight hiatus in raids after four straight days of aerial blitzkrieg against England.

RAF Strikes Back

But British RAF bombers took to the skies in a smashing night counter-punch blasting Nazi air and invasion bases from Calais to Le Havre along a 100-mile front in German-occupied France.

For more than an hour observers in southeast coast towns heard the distant wail of air raid sirens and the steady thud of bombs from France. Fires glowed against the far off skyline and more than 100 bomb flashes were counted while the air was dotted with starlike bursts of anti-aircraft fire.

The British reported meanwhile that the intensity of Nazi night raiding had fallen off sharply.

Germans attributed the let-up to unfavorable weather but said Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg plan had taken such temporary interference into account.

Afoot and in armored cars British home defense units searched moors in Scotland and woods in the midland for possible Nazi parachutists after some 60 German-marked parachutes were found.

Another Scare?

There was no sign of any Germans however and some British were inclined to consider it another Nazi scare scheme.

German spokesmen pooh-poohed the reports as a "mid-summer night's dream" and added "The English mind is full of fantasy."

Yesterday the British claimed 26 German planes shot down to four British lost making a total for Thursday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of 291 Germans to 72 British.

The Germans reported 22 British downed to five German planes for a total of 385 British to 88 German.

The British admiralty announced yesterdays midlands air raids.

There was the possibility that empty parachutes had been dropped as a deliberate scheme so Britains would be taken off their guard from an actual parachute attack, it was explained.

Eleven German airmen were reported captured in the midlands.

Trickery Reported

Rumors that German troops in Norway had been rebelling with pistols and had collected Scottish kilts as well as British uniforms for trick landings heightened watchfulness.

Stray planes only were reported during the night over Wales and southwest England and open country in west Scotland. The bomber over Scotland was shot down.

In contrast to recent nights no night bombing were reported.

In the war at sea meanwhile a German submarine sank the 16,923 ton armed merchant cruiser Transylvania, once a West Indies cruise ship operating out of New York.

The admiralty said the sinking occurred somewhere in the Atlantic. Between 30 and 40 sailors were believed lost but more than 300 officers and men were landed at a west coast port.

Sept. 15 Deadline

(British have set Sept. 15 as the deadline for any Nazi attempt at invasion this year since "from then on weather conditions over the English channel and the North sea would hinder transportation of troops.")

Military observers in Germany said today the mass aerial attacks had gone on long enough to have established a more or less steady ratio of Nazi and British losses. These quarters as well as the high command said the English over the course of a week had been losing about four planes to each German lost.

A portion of the Nazi press resumed its lectures to Switzerland on the responsibilities of neutrality."

The German newspapers challenged Switzerland to defend her neutrality by keeping out British planes which were reported to have flown over Swiss territory yesterday on their way to bomb objectives in northern Italy.

At the same time Swiss newspapers and other Swiss quarters were accused of taking the attitude that Germany has a special obligation to forestall famine in Nazi-occupied France.

CHARLES H. GRAVES DIES

AMONG REFUGEES FROM ENGLAND

Four year-old Peter Jaques arrives in New York aboard the liner S. S. Scythia with other young refugees fleeing the blitzkrieg on England. With him is the English mongrel dog Rover on Lockner whose great grandfather was Hollywoods famed Rin Tin Tin. Note the gas mask.

served from one point alone on the British coast.

While Aug. 15 dawned without the launching of the long-expected Blitzkrieg it was assumed the British were striking at all the possible gathering places for the troops, tanks guns boats and machines which Hitler is planning to use for the surprise attempt.

The Germans attempts to get behind the coastal defenses for attacks on airports and other vital objectives indicated they were following their familiar tactics in effort to establish the conditions for invasion.

Strike at Troops

(The German communique reported widespread attacks yesterday on British troop concentrations in the southeast particularly at the big camp of Aldershot, airports, armament works at Worcester and at Salisbury, north of Portsmouth, an electric train former between Brighton on the south coast and Lewes, seven miles away, and port facilities on the south coast.)

The systematic search for parachutists was touched off by the finding of three score German silk parachutes, 17 of them in one place, two of which were neatly folded.

Although no parachutists had been found the discovery of 17 in one place seemed to preclude the possibility they had been used by aviators shot down in the loss of the 16,923-ton armed merchant cruiser Transylvania once a West Indies cruise ship from New York and the seventh largest liner sunk in the war.

The Transylvania went down in the Atlantic four hours after being torpedoed. Thirty to 40 sailors were believed lost and more than 300 others were rescued.

Greece Prepares

Pro-British Greece worked hastily overnight on her plans for defense against a possible Italian military threat through Albania. Premier John Metaxas conferred for hours with his army chief and cabinet after discussions with axis representatives in which the Italian minister was said to have demanded that Greece enter Italy's sphere of influence.

From Shanghai it was reported that the foreign defense council in a secret four hour meeting had agreed on division of control of the international settlement's British sector by American and Japanese forces in spite of Japanese hopes that the United States might follow the British example in withdrawing its troops.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED ON JUDGE'S ORDER

Taken Into Custody After Failure To Pay Fines.

Four Marion men were picked up by police yesterday and today on orders of Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen after they allegedly failed to pay fines previously meted out to them by the court.

Pearl Edward Wingo, 25, colored, of 954 Kenton avenue was ordered committed to the county jail to serve out a fine of $25 and costs resulting from a petit larceny charge several months ago.

The other three, Given Anderson, 38, of 414 Thompson street, Walter Wilson, 39, of North Main street extension and Ross Moore, 24, of 583 Silver street, paid balances remaining from old fines and were released. Anderson had been fined for drunken driving, Wilson for intoxication and Moore for reckless driving.

In commenting upon the orders, Judge Hazen said that the men had agreed to pay the fines in "installments," and were released in accordance with the court's policy of not committing prisoners to jail if satisfactory arrangements could be made for payment of the fines.

In these four cases, the defendants failed to keep oral agreements to pay the fines within a specified time, the Judge said.

CRAWFORD CO. JUNIOR FAIR CLOSES TODAY

Young People Hear Talk by Rep. Petri of Galion.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 15—Amateur entertainment including tap dancing, instrumental and vocal selections and a talk by State Representative Kenneth Petri of Galion, Democratic candidate for congress, were highlights of the Wednesday night fair program offered as a part of the junior fair held at the county fairgrounds Wednesday and today.

The fair closed this afternoon with the finals in a pulling contest for boys' teams from the 10 rural schools of the county and the style show by girls.

Judging of livestock was completed Wednesday under the direction of vocational agriculture teacher, D. B. Robinson of Kenton.

The junior fair was substituted for the regular county fair this year after a bond issue for erection of a grand stand failed to meet with the approval of Crawford county voters. The old grand stand was destroyed by fire last winter.

CHAPTPER FORTY-FIVE

'Not Discerning Enough'

"I REMEMBER now that the chaplain was shocked when we told him about the piece of evidence," I said. "But Gerald—wouldn't she have suspected him then? And if she did, why keep quiet?"

"She was stupid, she wanted revenge and she had a grudge against the world. So had Felicia. Felicia really told me she was the fiancee of an FBI man; and I found on investigation, that she had told the same story when she applied for the position of governess here. Furthermore, she had references in proof of her assertion. There was such a man; and shortly after his death his widow disappeared. I won't bore you with the details of the undercover work we have done, from both ends, checking the story. I had the report this morning. The widow is living abroad. Felicia was a girlhood friend whom she had not seen in recent years, but with whom she kept up an intermittent correspondence. When her husband died she had sent Felicia copies of her references in the hope that Felicia could find a job for her, and had never thought to ask for them back.

"Felicia, she said, had been engaged to a stockbroker who lost his shirt in the depression and then disappeared. And there was some talk of Randly's midas hand being behind the failure. I think we can safely assume that Bridewell is the missing broker. In what company he has spent the intervening years, we can't yet say. He has managed to keep out of jail, otherwise his prints would be on record. But one can imagine the two, separate and penniless, nursing their wrongs, coming together again and hatching their plot for revenge and for financial restitution. That would have been all, at first. Then the panic of near discovery, the intoxication, for Felicia, at least, of pitting her wits against the law. She had never seen the chaplain. Why would she hesitate to sacrifice a life that meant nothing to her, for one that meant everything?"

"But how could they hope to keep up the deception?"

'Ingenuous Disguise'

"They didn't. Colonel Pennant tells me that the chaplain had already put in for a change of station because of his health. That poison oak was a diabolically ingenuous disguise—it would even account for any variation in his signature, because of his disabled hands. And they wouldn't have permitted it to wear off until he was safely away from here. I think that, somewhere en route to the new station, the chaplain would have disappeared from the train. And after a safe inteval Felicia would have given up her job and followed. The money is probably in a safe-deposit box in Chicago. We haven't discovered it yet, but we will. All but the twenty-five hundred one-dollar bills. And Randly will consider that well spent—"

"There's only one thing I don't understand," I said, after a little pause. "Why did they kill Ivan?"

"Ivan's was the most casually vindictive murder I have ever encountered. And it was a mistake. A most fortunate one for me, by the way. It leaked out after the ransom was paid that an FBI man had impersonated the butler that night. Of course he didn't see me, he only heard me speak, and h'I may say I can do a very nice Cockney when h'I 'ave to. My father was English, you see, and we lived over there until his death. Now I'm an American like my mother.

"It was Ivan's misfortune that he had fallen into a slight confusion as to the manner of speech of the typical Oxford man. It wasn't very good Cockney, either, to a discerning ear—but it attracted the chaplain's attention."

"Oh, there was something else, too!" I exclaimed. "I've just thought of it. The night of the beach party I asked Ivan if he was an actor and he quoted Shakespeare about all the world's a stage and one man in his time plays many parts. Then he said his vocation was more important than acting. It must have been just his dramatic way of leading up to his writing. Perhaps he felt he had a mission; but I thought Sandra shushed him. Anyway, he didn't go on. And the chaplain was listening. He must have thought—" I paused, horrified by the realization that, but for that speech, it might have been Gerald.

"Exactly," Gerald agreed grimly. "I'm afraid he acted hastily, in pure rage and without reference to Felicia's more subtle brain. She might, perhaps, have set him on the right track. It has been on her account, I may add, that I have played the fool. She is not quite subtle enough, fortunately for me, to realize that more than one can play at that game. Though she may have had doubts of me originally she quickly lost them. I could almost hear her think that no man would deliberately make such an idiot of himself."

"I saw through that," I remarked complacently.

"As I have said elsewhere, you're a discerning young person. But not, fortunately, discerning enough. I blame myself for not making sure you understood. But you see, I thought you were perfectly safe at the Pennants. You told me, if you remember, that you were spending the night there," he added reproachfully.

"Circumstance—er, arose," I said weakly.

"I hope you'll be more careful about circumstances in future, then. Have you any idea how you disrupted the forces of law and order last night?"

"What do you mean?"

"I thought you probably wouldn't know. Well, to begin with my movements last night: I left you at the Pennants' before dinner and drove to Fieldstone Inn where I had an engagement to meet a colleague. No, not the gentleman in need of eyelashes. That was a reporter. The man I met last night was the operative who hopes to identify Bridewell as soon as the poison oak heals. I concluded my business, came back to the post, to the club—to your rooms, to be exact. I was still concerned about that shorthand notebook which I had not been able to locate. And there it lay, in full view on your table."

While I was absent with Jeff, I reflected.

"Impassioned Slush"

"I seized upon it and took it to my rooms. I'm no expert. It took me a while to decipher that impassioned slush. Kay, I'm surprised at you. I did think it might be in code, but I gave that up when I came to the line at the end. I gave it up in favor of a search for Lover's Return. I seem, by the way, to have been the only person involved who did not know about that manuscript. Next time you're passing the information, please give me a slice too!

"I came back to your rooms because, of course, it had to be something of yours. I went quietly, because I had no desire to attract attention. And of course I saw your things were packed. I thought you had been there, packed up and gone back to the Pennants, leaving your things to be called for in the morning. You see, everything was dark. I had no way of knowing you were bunking with Felicia."

"You thought Lover's Return might be a story in a magazine," I said smiling a little at memory of my fright. "So you leafed through the stack on the table, didn't you?"

"How did you know?"

"Never mind—go on."

"Well, of course, I thought of a manuscript and did what I should have done earlier—went back to the colonel's quarters to ask you about it."

"Leaving the notebook behind."

"Forgot it," he said briefly. "Though I can't say it seemed an important oversight."

"It wasn't," I assured him. "If you mean that by doing so you endangered my life. I had already thought of the manuscript and gone to find it when I saw the notebook. I suppose—they had it all day?"

"Unquestionably. And the night before, when you heard someone moving about in your rooms, it must have been Bridewell looking for Lover's Return. I have a theory that Sandra was carrying the notebook, probably just having added her postscript, when she was killed. But didn't you have a copy of the manuscript in your papers?"

"Yes, but it wasn't named, I couldn't think of a title until I was copying it; and of course Sandra's story wasn't in the copy I kept. And that makes me think of something else—"

I told him then about the library in the chapel and the book Come Back, My Heart. "It must have been that by then they were grasping at straws."

"So finally they decided to leave the notebook there for you to find and lead them to the right story."

"I wonder if Felicia didn't guess when I read her the letter. She went right to the chaplain's rooms—said he needed towels."

"You can depend on it, they would leave no stone unturned. He was probably on his way to break open your suitcase when he found you there ahead of him—"

During Washington's administration the Maumee river valley was the storm center of the nation, since it was the seat of the Indian confederacy which sought to weep American settlers from entering the country north of the Ohio river.

From the site of Cincinnati three armies were sent to break the Indian power. Two failed but a third led by Gen. Anthony Wayne was successful. It was from him that the city of Fort Wayne took its name.

Mrs. Haynes taught at the Edison school here two years, resigning in the spring of 1937 because of her pending marriage to Mr Haynes, whom she had met on a trip abroad in the summer of 1936

Following their marriage they returned to London and in the fall of 1938 their daughter Beth was born. Until this summer they lived at their home in London and their country home outside the city, observing the rapidly increasing preparations for war

Mrs. Haynes spent her childhood in Gambier and Mt. Vernon. She attended Lake Erie College for Women and Ohio State university. Following her graduation from Ohio State in 1935, she obtained a teaching position in the Marion schools and was assigned to the Edison building

The tea next week at which she will lecture on her experiences in England will be open to all King's Daughters and their friends. Tickets may be obtained from members of the sponsoring circle or at the church the afternoon of the tea.

Nation's Effort To Rearm Below Its Maximum

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug 15 — Col. Leonard P Ayres looked back today on the first half of 1940 and declared

"Certainly the statistics of business reveal little evidence to indicate that we have been putting our maximum energies into a great national effort for rearmament.

"All in all the record has been one of business as usual and on a comparatively low level of industrial and financial activity Perhaps the next six months will be less usual

National income the first six months was about five per cent greater than the like period of 1939 as physical volume of industrial production increased 13 per cent the economist-statistician calculated

Railroad freight loadings increased more than 10 per cent and business transactions settled by check payments were up five per cent but "these are not very impressive increases" he said

The Cleveland Trust Co vice president pointed out there was about a seven per cent increase in employment which "still left some nine millions of unemployed in June of this year"

"There has been little new corporate financing in recent months and almost none for the purpose of increasing industrial capacity for producing war materials" Ayres added

humanitarian plan of relief was being opposed by the British and the American governments Mr Hoover's plan calls for a very large American administration set up to supervise and control and inspect the actions of Germany over a large part of the European continent

Is there any good reason to think that Hitler would permit Mr Hoover to exercise any such control as Mr Hoover proposes? If as has already been indicated in Berlin what Hitler would allow is what he has allowed the Red Cross to do in Poland, then obviously what the Nazis mean and what Mr Hoover means are two totally different things For while the Red Cross has supervised the distribution of relief in Poland, it has never controlled the food supplies of Poland or done any of the other elaborately difficult things which are called for in the Hoover plan Nor could such a control be exercised by the few Americans who have been permitted to work in Poland It would require a very great organization with vast powers to begin to do what the Hoover plan calls for

Tribe Wins, Keeps Lead on Smith's 1-Hitter

Webb's Single Spoils Al's Try for Perfect Game Against White Sox.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND O, Aug 15 — Al Smith had control — more control than at any other time in his major league career

The veteran southpaw gave the Cleveland Indians a 4 to 0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox last night with the first one hitter he ever pitched

Only Jimmy (Skeeter) Webb's pop single in the third inning deprived the winner of a place in baseball's hall of fame

Chalk it up to control" said the grinning hurler I hit the corners repeatedly and never gave them a good ball to hit

That's the way it was as 59 068 fans—the largest night crowd of the major league season—creered a pitching masterpiece that kept the Indians out in front with a two game lead over Detroit

Smith walked only one man and fanned four in hanging up his 13th victory against five losses

He had good support in the hitting of Roy Weatherly and Lou Boudreau Little Stormy singled and scored on Boudreau's triple in the first inning then tallied his sixth home run of the season in the third driving in Smith who had walked Boudreau accounted for the other marker racing home after his triple in the first as Webb threw wild

Edgar Smith tasting defeat for the ninth time yielded six safe blows

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The old guys with the funny deliveries did all right

In yesterday's two best pitched games King Carl Hubbell of the Giants and Al Smith of the Cleveland Indians the foremost exponents of the screwball recalled the old days when they used to win regularly what they win only occasionally now

Tribe Holds Lead

Smith of the two turned in the better job Working under the lights he limited the Chicago White Sox to one hit — Jimmy Webb's single in the third — to enable the Indians to hold their two game league lead by virtue of a 4 0 victory

The Hubbell victory in the first of a twin bill was a mellerdrammer of the dime novel variety While old Carl was clowing his way to a five hit 12 inning 1 0 victory over the Bees old Mel Ott who was benched for failure to hit recently stole some of the show Acting as a pinch hitter in the 10th he singled was sacrificed and scored on Frank Demaree's single

In the second game Manuel Salvo a Giant cast off blanked his former mates with eight hits to win 6-0

Meanwhile the Brooklyn Dodgers had a chance to close the gap between themselves and the idle Cincinnati Reds but they flubbed it After winning the first game 6 5 they lost the second 9 6 as Johnny Rizzo and Bill Brigan hit in timely fashion and the Bucs pitching folded completely

Yanks Win Again

The New York Yankees crept back into the first division by lambasting the Boston Red Sox for the third straight time 8 1 as Red Ruffing held the opposition to six hits three of them homers by Lou Finney Jimmy Foxx and Ted Williams

The Detroit Tigers finally came out of their slump after four losses to Washington the St Louis Browns 13 7 in a lively played game which cost the Browns the services of Jimmy Whitehead who suffered a sprained ankle in a collision at first base

Buddy Lewis' triple in the ninth with two out and two on gave the Senators a 5 3 victory over the Athletics

A walk in the eleventh inning with the bases loaded forced in the run that gave the Cards a 7 6 night game victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates

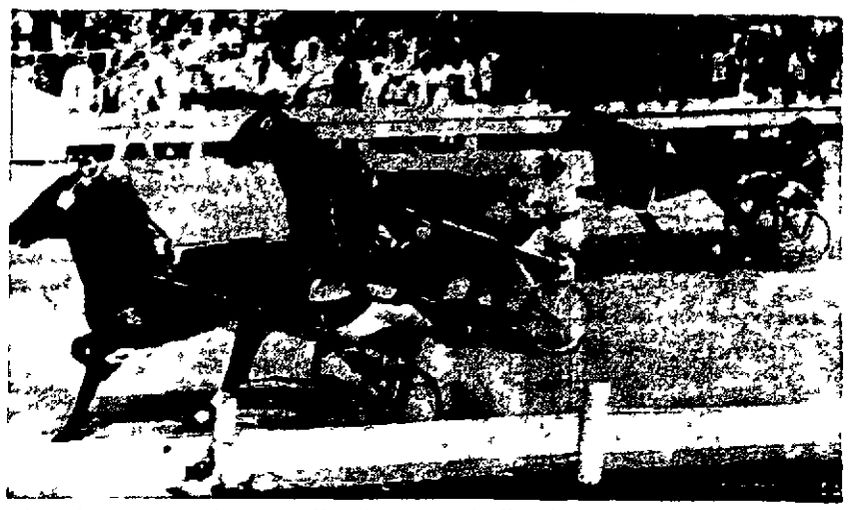
Spencer Scott Comes Home on Top in Hambletonian



Fred Egan veteran Lexington Ky driver won the Hambletonian stakes the nation's top race for trotting horses in straight heats with C W Phellis Spencer Scott (2) of Greenwich Conn Egan had finished in the money in 10 of 12 Hambletonians but this was his first victory in the big event Finishing behind him were Remus (3) and Kuno (7) in the second and final heat

Egan, Hard Luck Guy, Attains Goal By Victory In Harness Race Classic

By ORLO ROBERTSON

GOSHEN N Y Aug 15—A prediction made a year ago by a former Des Moines bell hop came true yesterday

As Peter Astra won the 1939 Hambletonian Fred Egan now nearing the 60 year mark stood at the head of the stretch and told all that cared to listen that he would be out there next year receiving honors for winning the world's premier trotting classic

Little consideration was given Spencer to straight heat victory however even though the Lexington Ky veteran long had ranked as one of the smartest drivers and trainers in the sport He was known as the hard luck guy of the Hambletonian having finished in the money in 10 of the 12 in which he had a horse

Then too the horse with which he expected to win Spencer Scott had shown nothing up to that time but yesterday Egan proved his statement when he drove Spencer to straight heat victory for C W Phelles of Greenwich Conn before some 30 000 fans at Good Time park

Spencer Scott was the people's choice and he justified that honor by stepping the first mile in 2 02 only a half second off Shirley Hanover's Hambletonian record and the second in 2 03 to win the purse of $23 077 Remus owned by Paul Bowser of Boston Bill Dickerson of Goshen N Y and trainer-driver Harry Shor of Columbus O and Dunbar Boston's Kuno of Westbury L I finished second and third respectively in both dishes

I had all the luck in the world said Egan who had driven such famous horses as Van Sandt 2 00¾ and Braden Direct 2 01 the quiet Kentuckians first great horse

He called it luck but the crowd called it a combination of smart driving and a fast horse

Hollywood Stars Deny Communistic Ties, Charged by Witness in Court

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES Aug 15—In terms of resentment and disgust Hollywood movie personages deny they are members of the Communist party or financial supporters thereof as charged in a transcript of county grand jury testimony

The testimony was that of John Lewis Leech of Portland Oregon former Los Angeles house painter Communist organizer and relief client

Of the many Hollywoodites Leech named Immediate denials came from the following who could be reached or their spokesmen Fredric March Francis Lederer Jean Muir Humphrey Bogart Lionel Stander James Cagney and writer Sam Ornitz

Some of those accused deprecatingly mentioned District Attorney Buron Fitts current campaign for re election

Leech testified in an inquiry that resulted in murder indictments last week against five men accused of complicity in a water front killing five years ago in a reported union dispute

So far there has been no official explanation of any connection between the Hollywood Red inquiry and the killing

Leech became involved in various difficulties over his testimony at the Harry Bridges deportation hearing at San Francisco last summer before Dean Landis of the Harvard law school

Actor March last night said that so far as he was concerned Leech is an unmitigated liar and that he would like to meet Leech face to face and call him a liar

I have never knowingly contributed a single penny to the Communist or any other un-American cause March said

Writer Ornitz said I have been consistently attacking District Attorney Buron Fitts on the basis that he is a bad influence for the community, for the home and in general

Election Coming

It is said Ornitz continued that Mr Fitts elected to prey upon and slander innocent people just before the primary election because they threaten him

Actor Stander reiterated that he never was a Communist party member and declared he is a real true American favoring democracy

Stander said the inquiry is just campaign material for Mr Fitts who is using big Hollywood names for his own benefit

Bogart declared he had never contributed money to a political organization of any form and said I dare the men who are attempting this investigation to call me to the stand

In the absence of Cagney on a New England motor tour his brother-business manager William asserted he is not a Communist never has been a Communist and never will be

At Saratoga Springs N Y Lederer said I am not a Communist and have never been one I am violently opposed to communism and everything it stands for

Representing Miss Muir Beauvais Fox said at Schenectady N Y where she is to appear on the stage next week that she told me to say this (the Leech reference to her) is wholly false

The Stars Say—

FOR FRIDAY, AUG 16

THE ASTRAL influences bearing on the affairs of this day must be read as dubious, doubtful and radical, with the prospect of strange situations to be unraveled by discretion, sound judgment and probably by the wise counsel of less disturbed and confused heads. Papers, all sorts of writings, of a business as well as intellectual or legal nature, should be handled with utmost discretion.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves involved in a year in which perplexities and problems call for much calm discretion, sagacity and friendly suggestion, since there are hints of loss, fraud, misconstructions anent writings, documents or legal matters, caused by carelessness. It would be well to make no radical change although there will be a strongly undermining and uprooting force inciting to just such critical venture.

A child born on this day should be shrewd, clever, versatile and full of new notions and ideals, perhaps erratic and fond of change.

SLENDERIZING BOLERO ENSEMBLE

PATTERN 4442

There's a gracious "leading lady" look about this frock and bolero, Pattern 4442 by Anne Adams. You'll start off the fall season by wearing the ensemble, with the tailored, long-sleeved bolero, as a street outfit. Later, you'll wear the dress alone under your coat. Just see those well-balanced lines! The front skirt panel gives slim flattery. The simple bodice is shirred or gathered at the shoulders and darted above the waist to keep its easy fullness in place. A row of tiny buttons from the V-Neck to the waist creates nice up-and-down lines. A gay idea is to contrast the rounded revers of the jacket to match the dress. Let the Sewing Instructor help you finish quickly.

Inquiries Received Here Regarding 30-Day Tours.

Thomas E. Smith, U. S. naval recruiting officer here, said today he has received a number of inquiries from young men interested in a new class in the U. S. Naval Reserve, instituted for the purpose of training eligible men for commissions as officers in the Naval Reserve. Inquiries have been referred to recruiting headquarters, Room 248 of the new federal building in Cincinnati, where all applicants must go for physical examination, he said.

Applicants who meet requirements will be enlisted as apprentice seamen, Naval Reserve, and will be required to sign an application for a tour of duty of approximately 30 days without pay. On the cruise they will be trained in the fundamentals of military discipline, shipboard life and naval procedure. Intensive training will be given in gunnery, navigation, engineering, communications and watch standing at sea. Cruises have been scheduled from Aug 19 to Sept. 14, with subsequent cruises continuing monthly to January, 1941.

To be eligible an applicant must be native born, unmarried and have reached his nineteenth birthday but not past his twenty-seventh birthday on enlistment; must meet the physical requirements; must possess credits for a minimum of two years work in an accredited university or college, must be of good repute in his community; must have parents' consent to enlist if he is under 21 years of age. Each applicant must submit the original or certified copy of his birth certificate, official transcript of his school credits, at least two letters of recommendation from reliable citizens testifying to his integrity.

Free Movies Aid in Beautifying State Highways

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O — Free tickets to the movies are helping to beautify Ohio's highways.

Under state highway department sponsorship, 10 Columbus theaters are granting free admittance to children under 17 in exchange for a pint of Hollyhock seeds. These, and other seeds deposited in street corner barrels, are being planted along central Ohio roadsides.

Landscape Architect D. D. Dupre said the hollyhock plantings were the latest development in the department's six year program of roadside beautification.

Since 1934, he said, approximately 250 roadside parks, with clean water and picnic facilities have been built, with many more now under construction.

In addition, trees, grass and shrubs have been placed along both new and old roads, to control erosion and remove unsightly barren plots. Roadside improvement, Dupre said, is now a part of nearly all construction projects sold by the highway department.

The cost Dupre estimated at approximately $100,000 a year, or two per cent of the department's total expenditures. Of this, about $85,000 is directed specifically toward erosion control, with the remaining $15,000 set aside for general planting and beautification.

Letting John Bull Do It

THE guessing contest staged by congressmen over conscription is folly which only the United States can afford Geography and the good fairies will hold the fort while orators blow off steam

Opponents of conscription obviously are guessing the British will handle Hitlerism so roughly the United States won't need to worry Without any known exception they'd be in favor of conscription to a man if the country were in real danger, but they cheerfully refuse to believe there's going to be any real danger Be cool and calm they coo John Bull will take care of everything

Unfortunately this isn't a case where one guess is as good as another If the starry-eyed anti-conscriptionists are wrong and Hitlerism sweeps over Britain the way it has swept over everything else the United States will regret every second it sacrificed to complacency It has known since Munich what the possibilities of trouble were It has criticized France and Great Britain for whistling in the dark, yet in August, 1940 it still is unprepared It's no time to be complacent or cool or calm

A little more delay however may not make much difference now Decision in the battle of Britain probably will be reached within a month Victory for Germany would do something which still hasn't been done in the United States—jar Americans into realization that in order to hold their own in a world dominated by guns and militant natures they're going to need more than big talk big appropriations and hand-wringing lest Uncle Sam wound some sensitive feelings. Until that happens, national preparedness probably would be mostly talk anyway

War Guilt

GERMANY may be expected to use evidence from the trial of former French officials at Riom to pin war guilt on France It will be only a half step from the charge that defendants led their country to war and defeat before it was ready to fight to the charge that they precipitated the conflict which is Germany's official position

The German government is willing to go to great trouble to back up the contention it is fighting a defensive war against vicious aggressors. It has "proved" that Poland was ready to attack it Through the German Library of Information in New York City it has distributed to American newspapers the full text of 'white book No 4' "proving British designs on Norway and justifying its invasion of that country It has 'proved' that France was getting ready to invade German territory via Belgium and the Netherlands So far it hasn't proved that the British must be obliterated to keep them from taking over central Europe but papers to that effect no doubt will be found in due time in the pockets of a British soldier Under the circumstances, it would be surprising if the trial in France weren't used to "prove" that a clique of bloodthirsty Frenchmen started the war against peace-loving Germany last September and subsequently were punished by their own government for high crimes and misdemeanors

Britain's Disquieting Claims

BRITISH claims of extensive damage to industrial areas in Germany continue to be discouraging news to sympathizers If Britain can send planes deep into Germany with deadly effect, what must Germany's planes launched from the channel coast be doing to Great Britain! After all it is Germany which is potentially capable of delivering a knockout blow Great Britain doesn't pretend to be on the offensive

It is universally conceded that Germany has more planes and a higher rate of plane production Apparently British pilots are superior to the average run of German pilots though probably no better than comparable German officers, if the latter were considered separately from less highly trained pilots flying in squadrons under the officers direction Likewise it is believed that British planes are made to last longer and perform better though this advantage in quality probably does not offset Germany's advantage in quantity

German anti aircraft guns are said to be more numerous and of better quality and distribution of Germany's industrial nerve centers is much wider than Britain's German bombers have more targets in a narrow range to be hit with telling effect than British bombers. In fact, recalling everything which has been surmised about German and British air forces—neither country of course would tell anything to its own disadvantage—one can recall only one thing in which the British possess a clear advantage They have better aviation gasoline If their claims of wholesale destruction in Germany be correct then Germany's claims of destruction in Britain must be too modest.

News Behind the News

Political Story Believed in Background of Edward J Noble's Quiet Departure

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON Aug 16—They could not afford to let the soft voiced departure from government service of Republican businessman Edward J Noble carry any political implications All parties concerned say so too The resigning undersecretary of commerce himself expressed special anxiety that the record show political partisanship has had no part in either my entering or leaving government service In his departing letter to Mr Roosevelt

Paul Mallon

But this is accepted by those in the know as only the usual diplomatic piety that has come to be familiarly associated with departures from the New Deal If you have no more than a smooth Canadian dime you can get a wager anywhere around the top that politics was primarily concerned

Mr Noble always got along well in the New Deal crowd especially with Bob Jackson the attorney general Francis Biddle the solicitor Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed and even the nebulous but formidable Tom Corcoran But when Wendell Willkie the Republican nominee was introduced to Washington at an off the record press club speech the New Dealers noted that Mr Noble was a prominent guest and applauded more than diplomacy required

Thereafter Noble who had been running the commerce department for two years during the illness of Secretary Hopkins and his concern with personal and political duties of the President experienced some sharp misunderstandings with the secretary The blow off came over a suggestion or order that every official of the commerce department clear announcements and statements to the public through Mr Hopkins personal publicity relations man Victor Sholis The department denies an order to that effect was issued That may be true but only technically

It would not be surprising if Mr Noble a liberal manufacturer who makes life savers next appears in print shaking hands with Wendell Willkie He will not have to clear that photograph through anyone

Draft Opposition

The Wheeler Norris opposition to the draft bill started off merely as a foredoomed fight for the record but has been strengthened and made dangerous by the swarm of obviously true inside reports that the midwest has become aroused against the measure Not only the congressional mail but the private reports of the White House confirm the unexpected antagonism of the farm belt. Important compromises may be required

At the outset the President had been informed by his congressional leaders he would have no trouble whatever with the measure

Policy Differences

A policy tempest is raging in the state department's teapot Ardent factional differences of opinion have developed over the policies both toward Japan and Russia One group believed vaguely following Stanley Hornbeck adviser on political relations wants a distinctly firmer attitude adopted against Japanese aggression The opposing group presumably led by Maxwell Hamilton chief of the division of far eastern affairs favors a more conciliatory attitude

The division over Russian policy is somewhat more confused but clearly expresses inner dissatisfaction with existing relations

Defense Difficulties

Steam is still coming out from under the lid at the national defense commission Tales have been carried to the highest that the officers of the war department have found it extremely difficult to accommodate civilians A definite break occurred a few days back over just themselves to the wholly new one important phase of the program

Multiple Survey

A special survey man for the Twentieth Century fund came to town with $2 500 in his pocket to make a study of just what industry needs in the national defense program He started at the bureau of labor statistics but after a few hours discovered an economist in the bureau was already making a survey of the same subject At the end of the first days work he succeeded in learning a similar inquiry was being conducted by the national defense advisory commission Next day about 5 p m he heard the agriculture department was doing the same thing and the following day he discovered the department of commerce had such an inquiry under way The government apparently believes in being thorough Just to make sure that the job is done right the Twentieth Century fund surveyor will continue

3rd Term Never Tested

Issue Never Reached Polls Before, History Shows.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON Aug 16—Answering the mail orders G H M Birmingham Ala—No the third term issue has never been given a test at the polls

As close as the voters ever got to it was 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt having been elected once after serving out McKinley's unexpired term ran on the Bull Moose ticket If he had been elected he would have been in the White House about 11½ years (although not consecutively)

Grant tried to get nominated in 1880 for a third term (again not consecutive) He failed after he had deadlocked the convention through more than 30 ballots

Political historians insist that other than Washington Coolidge is the only President until Roosevelt who could have been nominated for a third term

Many will say flatly that had Coolidge chosen to run in 1928 his election would be been assured That of course can't be proved but some Democratic commentators are using it as proof that with the T Roosevelt showing in 1912 there were at least two times when the Republican party didn't worry about the third term tradition

Horror Stories

Mrs K I T Spokane Wash—The excerpts from the letter of your missionary friend in China are interesting but grim and horrible I am sorry I cannot pass them along to the readers of this column I would be the last one to deny that inaccuracies occasionally creep into these paragraphs but they would be far go to if I relaxed the rule against setting down reports which I have no way of checking

Perhaps one reason editors and publishers in this country have shown no disposition to print horror stories either from China or Europe is that they remember too well the propaganda lessons of the World war Personally I think it a highly commendable caution With so many vital things going on in the world today that may affect the whole future of America it is no time to stir up a hornet's nest of hysteria

Jobs

B T Fiston Pa—You are asking for personal advice but I refer you back to a recent column and give you official advice

Don't come to Washington looking for a job unless you have connections which practically assure you the position It's a wild guess, but perhaps about 8 000 persons have been employed here in the last three months

The District of Columbia employment center tells me that there are more than 87 000 job applications on file and that more than 12 000 of these have been made or renewed in the last month

Civil service and employment bureau officials have gone on the air in recent weeks in an effort to stem the tide of job hunters that has rolled in as a result of the national defense drive

There is no doubt that there are going to be hundreds maybe thousands of new jobs here but the competition is already keen

The point is that maybe in your own community certainly in your own state the defense program is opening up job possibilities

If you are a skilled laborer the chances are you'll have no trouble finding work

Even if you aren't explore the possibilities in or near your home town before you descend on Washington without political connections or a civil-service rating

THE OLD SHELL GAME

New Deal Spending

Democratic Platform Silent on Government Finances.

By HARLEY L. LUTZ
Professor of Public Finance
Princeton University

THE Democratic platform of 1940 is silent on the most important of all domestic issues which is the government finances Neither the word budget nor the expression economy in public expenditure is to be found in it The only reference to taxation is the sterile proposal to end the so called tax exemption of federal state and local bonds This matter is of no importance whatever either as regards the revenue or the public's inclination to invest capital in private enterprise

In seven years the administration has issued at least 30 billion dollars of direct and indirect federal obligations but it has made no move to terminate the remaining tax exemptions allowed to the federal debt paper The real objective is to tax state and local debt of which about 19 billion 600 million dollars are now outstanding

All that has been said about the tax immunity of state and local bonds causing a net loss of revenue and a diversion of investment from business is pure hokum These arguments are intended to cover the real objective aimed at which is to destroy the financial independence of the states and thus to destroy the nation as a union of states It is part of the New Deal drive toward complete centralization of all financial and administrative power in Washington

THE omission of all reference to budget and taxation is most significant in view of the long list of promises to help everybody which the platform contains These promises include the young the old farmers consumers workers—in short virtually the whole community The only thing that is lacking is to say what is to be used for money in carrying out the promises

This subject is completely ignored Eight years ago Mr Roosevelt as a candidate was fighting mad all through the campaign over Mr Hoover's extravagance and the way in which he was driving the country toward bankruptcy As a spender Mr Hoover was a piker by comparison with Mr Roosevelt The 1940 platform which the President presumably approves simply makes wholesale promises of bigger and better government bounty to all

The necessary inference is that the New Deal intends if it should be kept in power to go on creating bigger deficits than ever This is quite apart from the financing of the defense program In his speech of acceptance Mr Roosevelt said that all must sacrifice in this hour of need His platform had already anticipated this point in the acceptance speech But the rest of the platform contains no hint of sacrifice by the New Deal beneficiaries It is a series of invitations to step up to the pie counter In one sentence there is pious talk of universal sacrifice but in another it is said that there must be no sacrifice of the New Deal bounty to its friends

THE one thing that must be said over and over in the campaign and in the years to come regardless of the result of the campaign is that the financial methods of the last seven years will if continued destroy the American way of life and the free institutions which we are supposed to be preparing to defend The Democratic platform is obviously a pledge to continue these financial methods Thus it makes a mockery of the platform's closing section with its unctuous phrases about preserving the American heritage and fulfilling the American destiny as the custodian of free institutions

"The world is filled with piano pla God allows only about six good acco to every generation, she remarks, devoutly

She indicated her own appreciation of accompanists by marrying two who worked with her first Burton Green, and after his death Jerry Jarnagin. Both were widely known in their line and time The singer matrimonial union was almost a vogue in the vaudeville era Irene suggests that it may have been because the singers who knew the value of great accompanists wanted to keep their assistants to themselves.

...ing profits, by imposing ...fits tax, would make it ... to pay for the costs of ... a pay-as-you-fight basis.

The profits of war would be made to pay for the burdens of war by this taxation method which, in turn, would tend to equalize the profits and burdens of war. Everyone thus would be made to realize—in advance—that paying for the costs of war out of income received, would leave less net income during time of war. In turn, this realization would encourage a universal desire for perpetual peace.

Another important angle to such a bill, would make profiteering impossible through this taxation method, during time of war, we can avoid dictatorship control to accomplish the same end. Fascist control of prices, finance expansion, conscription of industry or labor, control over securities, commodities, or capital, should be made unnecessary by such a bill. On the contrary, by its provisions, it would create a safeguard against fascism, communism, state socialism or what have you—in other words against any form of dictatorship.

In the World war, 23,000 American citizens became millionaires while American soldiers, sailors and marines were risking their lives, in defense of their country's principles. We do not want the same conditions to prevail if circumstances force us into war. The answer is obvious and such a bill would definitely assure us that these conditions would never again exist in the United States.

Another objection I suppose of a lot of people to such a bill would be that the conscription of capital as well as man-power is communistic and socialistic. I maintain that in time of war, a nation engaged in a desperate struggle for national survival, not only may—but must—use every democratic means possible to defend itself and its people. Instead of communism, I believe this theory would be the essence of democracy. Under the emergency conditions of war, our country has the same moral right to conscript capital as it has to conscript men. In this bill I would seek to make both rights legal as well as moral. (Both would be purely temporary measures). There is no more reason to argue that conscription of wealth would be a permanent device than there is to believe that this government would continue to conscript man-power, in the midst of peace.

During the World war the United States and every other participating country employed temporary regulations governing food, fuel and other commodities. It is as ridiculous to suppose that the conscription of wealth during war, would serve as an entering wedge for communism, as it would have been to have opposed the "meatless days" of 1917-18, on the grounds that the government thereafter would dominate the eating habits of the people in time of peace as well as in time of war.

Another objection, no doubt, would be the charge of "confiscation." I agree that such a bill would mean confiscation—confiscation of excess profits as well as men; confiscation of war time profits as well as human blood; confiscation of the proceeds of war time profiteering as well as confiscation of young Marion manhood, lives and hopes. If, in time of war, it becames necessary for this government to take a young husband from his wife and children, a son from his mother, is it any less moral for the government to take profits from those who prosper at home because we are at war? Is it any more difficult for a man to sacrifice his war profits than for a wife to sacrifice her husband or a mother her son? I firmly believe that confiscation, in time of war, should certainly apply to money as well as men.

I firmly believe that the profit motive is an incentive to war. I firmly believe there is a wide spread opinion in this country that another war "would bring back prosperity." You and I know, as well as all thinking Americans must know, that any war-induced prosperity is purely a temporary and superficial effect, that in its aftermath it only leads to financial depression, unemployment, economic difficulties, to say nothing of that vast army of dead and disabled which is always war's greatest tragedy.

PAUL REYNOLDS.

By ADELE GARRISON

Edith is Drugged by Nurse Whitlock Who Fears Her Charge is Planning Suicide

"I'LL remember I told my mother in law with pumped-up emphasis as I left her room while she prepared to go to the nursery thus releasing Kathleine for the time and take charge of the children.

But it was with reluctant step indeed that I went toward my room where Nurse Whitlock was taking care of Edith Burdix. It was not the fantastic suspicion voiced by Katie and by my mother in-law which was troubling me. It was an equally fantastic bit of superstition which haunts me sometimes.

True Predictions

Two or three times when I have voiced some excuse partially false about a person to camouflage something else about them I have seen my first excuse come true unexpectedly. My common sense tells me that all of the occurrences were the merest of coincidence but I felt my hands go damp at the possibility that the worry about Edith's state of mind which I had voiced to my mother in-law might come true.

I stood before my door for a long second or two before I could make up my mind to knock. And when I did lift my hand the resultant rap was so faint that I wondered if Miss Whitlock would hear it. Yet I dared not rap louder for fear Edith, who I knew was having so much trouble sleeping, might have just dropped into slumber and be awakened by my summons.

Door Opens

But the door opened almost instantly and Miss Whitlock slipped out through it, and closed it after her.

"Do you fire leave her alone?" I murmured.

Miss Whitlock looked at me oddly.

"Then you know," she said.

I gasped with the sensation of having cold water thrown into my face.

"Know what?" I countered. "Really I know nothing. I just surmised that she was more ill than we had thought."

Very Ill

"She is all of that," said then some. "Miss Whitlock, I've said. I have been wanting to talk to you about her as you know. And when you told me while she was asleep that you could see me this afternoon I took the liberty of giving her an extra strong sedative. She needs the sleep more than she needs anything else, and there is nothing the matter with her heart so she had the dose in some coffee and never knew what she was getting. If she had known she never would have taken it. She seems to have a horror of going to sleep—perhaps because she has a greater horror of waking up again."

There was something significant in her tone but I was afraid to follow the lead she had given me and after a little hesitant pause she went on.

"But she's dead to the world now. I made sure of that, and she'll stay that way for an hour at least. I wouldn't dare to leave her if she weren't sound asleep with no danger of her waking to find herself alone."

A Mystery

Again there was the odd, significant little pause, again I had the impression that she wished me to ask her what she meant. But not yet could I bring myself to put that question to her especially to hear the answer to it.

"It's very lucky she is so sound asleep," I said, "for there is something I must talk over with you immediately, something for which we must plan. Then when we have settled that we shall have plenty of time before she wakens for the discussion about her which you wish with me."

"Very well," she said, and walked with me to the window seat in the hall where for the last time as I hoped I recited my fine wishes for guarding the women of the household. Miss Whitlock listened attentively, adding acquiescence occasionally.

"If you can manage to have the room in readiness for me to put her into bed after the transfer I shall be glad," she said gravely, and then I mustered up courage to put the question which I knew must be asked.

"Just what is it you fear about Edith?" I asked.

Miss Whitlock looked at me steadily for an instant.

"That she will kill herself at the first opportunity if she is not watched," she said.

A Strike for Beauty

By BETTY CLARKE
Associated Press Writer

For several years there's been a theory that you can stretch your way to beauty, that the more you stretch, the more beautiful you are.

Now the theory is. The more rhythm you get into regular stretching the more health and the more grace you add to your beauty.

So it's a heyday for sports like swimming, tennis and bowling.

The better you play the game the more rhythmical stretching you're supposed to do and the more graceful you should become.

Take bowling for example. The new season will soon open.

Swear By It

Feminine bowling enthusiasts swear by bowling as an aid to changing a bulky midriff of relaxed muscles into healthy slenderness.

They also say good bowling helps put roundness into too-thin necks and chests.

Many women bowlers recommend careful timing and correct footwork not only to add to the skill of your game but also to develop proper balance of your weight and improve posture.

The stance is all-important they insist. And the way to get it they say is to stand 15 to 20 feet back of the foul line with your body at full height, your weight on both feet and your shoulders parallel with the foul line.

Go Slowly at First

If you're going to get the most out of a game in the way of fun and better figure they say take it slowly at first and in small doses.

Then progress if you wish toward an hour of bowling a day to keep the bulges away.

The service was provided through the Ohio State university extension department and arrangements to hold them were directed by Homer S Porteus county agricultural agent.

Tests of soil samples were used as the basis of recommendations to farmers regarding the type and quality of fertilizer needed and the amount of lime needed to insure good clover and alfalfa crops.

Mr Porteus was assisted in making arrangements for the Morral laboratory tests by A J Bishop vocational agriculture instructor at Morral.

British, Now Fighting Mad No Longer Apologize For Shelters from Bombs, or Women in Uniform

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Feature Service

LONDON—When I left England a year ago—just before the outbreak of war—English muddethroughers still had their heads in the sands which for years had hidden the menace of ever-blackening storm clouds.

Coming back I find there is no sand for such purpose. It has all been scooped up for a finish fight against an expected invasion.

The peaceful greensward I left has been changed into an island fortress.

Gone is the blind reliance on the channel barrier—the reason

Sandbags everywhere for a finish fight ing that we haven't been invaded for a thousand years therefore we never shall be.

That classic foggy day headline 'Continent Cut Off By Fog' would not appear in this new England.

Gone is blind reliance on the 'channel barrier'

Only a year ago the man in the pub still was likely to associate the word cricket with the progress of his favorite cricket team. The rare bloke who had an air raid shelter in his garden apologized lugubriously for it.

To the Trenches

Today red and white striped poles topped with arrows point the way. To the Trenches and to deeper type shelters. Even a part of Trafalgar Square has been given over to them.

The last sight I recall as the train carried me to Dover that summer day a year ago was of sheep grazing in green fields. The first sight I met after stepping out of a seaplane on my return was of sandbags and barbed wire and of soldiers in khaki patrolling with modern rifles. The soldiers even carry their rifles on dates.

Coming up to London from the seadrome I saw sheep again. But in adjoining fields were camouflaged barracks airdromes barricades and sandbagged machine gun nests cleverly worked into the landscape.

Women Soldiers Too

Stepping out of Waterloo station I found the streets of London filled with soldiers—women as well as men. Women volunteers no longer were the butt of music hall jokes.

People were carrying gas masks. And the skies above were dotted by cable trailing balloons. Elegant spiders ready to trap marauding enemy aircraft.

The same red doubledecker buses were swinging perilously through narrow winding streets. But there also were snub-nosed auxiliary fire engines. To serve these engines in case mains break in a raid are large oblong tanks

'The peaceful greensward has been changed into an island fortress' of water installed like old fashioned horse troughs at strategic points.

At Buckingham Palace reached after negotiating a formidable barrier of sandbags and barbed wire I found the guard wearing

'One thing has not changed—the foggy, rainy English weather'

khaki battle dress and helmets in place of picturesque red jackets and black bearskins.

'If 'E'd Been There'

It took little plumbing to discern the new spirit in the air. Winston Churchill, vindicated after years of abuse from Conservative politicians who accused him of crying wolf has become dictator. A clerk in a hat shop said: 'If we'd 'ad 'im in Downing street four years ago, this'd never 'ave happened.'

Daily air attacks on various sectors an enormous increase in the income tax and general cost of living food rationing the severe blackouts—so black the bobbies wear white coats and carry red lanterns—and casualty lists—the English have grown accustomed to all these since last I was here.

But there is one thing not changed—the foggy rainy English weather—a more effective defense against enemy raiders than fleets of Spitfires.

Lamson Lamson who ... everything from nurse-maid to exchequer for the Cabrillos during his twenty years of service

Constance walked briskly to the arch of the solarium and stopped short Just what are you doing here she demanded

A plump young salesman arose from a chair You said you couldn't talk to me at your office he defended

Not any other place, added Constance

But Miss Cabrillo You have the reputation of being a keen business woman Now your brother has invested four hundred dollars in his car He's been unable to keep up his payments Instead of the Cabrillos losing that investment, we are willing to accept your business coupe at present list price reducing the total amount of the indebtedness which we will arrange for you to meet in small monthly payments'

'What am I supposed to do buy a pair of roller skates?'

But Miss Cabrillo you would then be the owner of an imported special—

Listen flashed Constance I sell real estate If I took my clients out in that four-wheeled night club they'd expect me to go into a bubble-dance The answer is NO

Defeated the man arose Okay, if you Cabrillos can afford to lose the investment."

Constance watched him leave her lips pressed tightly against further words His scene at her office that afternoon had nearly cost her a three hundred dollar commission The Cabrillos couldn't afford to lose that

She waited a moment to fortify her spirit against the coming family conference John Raskthorne alone signified a potential fiance For a moment she toyed with the thought of leaning against his sturdy shoulder, of letting the family lean against his equally sturdy financial backing Then she straightened She couldn't They had already gained credit on the rumors that she would marry him She didn't know to what lengths they would go if she became Mrs Raskthorne

Stormy Rebellion

STILL feeling the need to lean upon something she looked about the sunroom Not a square inch of the jade-and-scarlet leather furniture was paid for A pet shop was threatening to carry the macaws and marmosets back to their store cages They'd miss the freedom of the luxuriant tropical foliage also threatened with return

Why couldn't the Cabrillos realize that lineage would not pay bills?

Well she might as well get it over The library John and her mother signified a financial discussion Along with his millions Raskthorne had inherited the role of administrator of the Cabrillo estate

The heavy rugs caught and smothered Constance's footsteps She stepped into the long room unseen and for a little while watched the group gathered about the hearth fire

As always, her stormy rebellion calmed at the sight of her mother's fragile golden beauty She might scoff at her untiring effort to cling to youth but underneath her scoffing lay a deep compassion It made her forgive her father for dissipating the estate during his brief life with Nadine

Rebellion surged back as Constance looked at her younger brother Don sprawled on a rug, his hair yellow against the white fur his black Cabrillo eyes moody

Donna, his twin, and pure Cabrillo was a chic vision in black and scarlet, though a rather tense vision as she sat on an ottoman hands clasped very tightly about her knees

'You're crazy if you think Connie will sell' Don was saying 'That girl's shrewd She'll hang on until the rest of us starve to death so she can have it for herself

'Don, dear protested Mrs Cabrillo gently Conchita is not shrewd she is modern'

"Modern my eye," snapped Donna My beloved sister is what's commonly called a throw-back Don't look so shocked mother Rask had ancestors he doesn't brag about As long as he's so intent upon marrying Connie, he might as well know we have a Shanty Irishman in our ancestral woodpile'

Constance slipped into a chair She might as well eavesdrop If there were a sale involved, she'd need to know the truth and they'd never tell it to her face

"I don't feel you are justified in saying your great-grandfather Michel was shanty

"Oh mother-er,' groaned Don, "you can't squeeze any blue blood out of a moniker like Mickey Mahoney

'This is the set-up, Rask One day in a careless mood a King of Spain had an undersecretary scratch some words on parchment, granting a wad of land in what is now known as California to the first of the Cabrillos that is, of our branch of them I understand there are others

"This land and our branch petered out until, when Mickey Mahoney came over from Ireland during the California gold rush, there were only forty-five thousands acres left

"Mickey wheedled the current Don into selling him all of this excepting the ranch proper, for some thirty-five hundred dollars in gold

"Mickey acquired a Scotch wife and they acquired a daughter who fell in love and married the last of the old Don's grandsons Mickey went on to his just reward without a son to inherit so the daughter inherited and the land was back in the hands of the Cabrillos.

Rattling Of Skeletons

"THE daughter Bridget, had inherited her father's shrewdness, but she didn't pass it on, and by the time father's older brothers her sons got through selling land to keep themselves like human beings there were only two thousand acres left for Dad

"I was six when he died, so I didn't really know him, but from what I understand, he was cracked on the subject of land He had the place homesteaded so mother couldn't mortgage it and left that fool proviso in his will that it couldn't be sold until Constance was twenty-one, and never without her full permission

'Consequently we three have to depend upon Connie's decision and meanwhile we live like church mice

Donna leaned forward "You see how important it is, Rask, don't you"

Raskthorne's voice smooth slightly whimsical, was heard for the first time "It looks to me as though your father had gauged Connie's business ability at a very early age

"Rot snorted Don "It wasn't that, it was her gift of gab He was crazy about her He'd have given her the moon if she'd put up a sales talk

'That girl is a throwback She's Mickey Mahoney done over in skirts Why else would she be working" Going out on the job every morning as though she belonged to a laboring man It's a disgrace"

"It isn't just the desire to work," Donna put in, acidly, "it's money She has a bank vault instead of a heart'

Constance gripped the arms of the chair So that is what they thought of her She'd known, but she'd never heard them speak openly she'd never dreamed they would tell anyone outside of the family. Would she ever dare marry John now, without him thinking she was marrying him for his money?

'You're wrong Donna" Raskthorne said seriously" If it were money alone, Constance would marry for it She won't. I know. It's something deeper than money—'

Constance felt she could not bear to listen to his defense, to know that he knew why she refused so persistently

"An eavesdropper,' she now quoted lightly, crossing the room, "never hears good of herself Would you mind being as frank with a member of your family as you have with a friend, and tell me what causes this rattling of skeletons?"

There was a moment of startled silence, then Raskthorne jumped to hold a chair for her

In that moment Constance hated him, hated him for the pity in his eyes, for the smooth assurance of his gestures, for his very sturdiness, the squared features, the silver line on his temples which blocked his brown hair into a cap, his grey eyes with their short, thick shade of lashes

"They are not like you, Conchita," he chided. "They concede that I am a member of the family"

Constance flashed him a white-lipped smile "They are inclined to accept everything good as their own," she said "Now please, there was talk of a sale and my consent being necessary. May I hear about it?"

Don and Donna sought to speak at once At 21 they were confident of their right to riches by grace of being a Cabrillo; as Constance at 24 was confident all rights and riches must be earned by individual effort.

Long Island's Mansions Fast Disappearing

By The Associated Press

ROSLYN, N. Y.—Long Island's great estates are vanishing one by one.

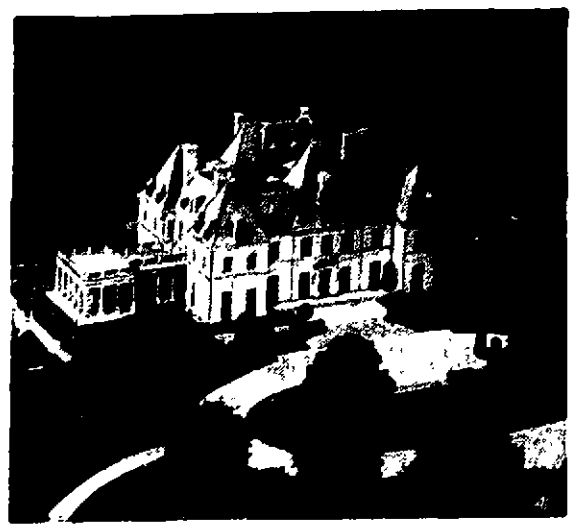
Some of the most famous were doomed only this summer by changing times. At least one country castle is being torn down to save taxes. Others have been sold and their landscaped gardens and private golf courses cut up into neat suburban plots.

The financial kings who built these show places are gone and their wealth divided among children who have homes of their own. Taxes and upkeep would make terrible dents even in ample incomes.

But there's more than death and taxes behind it all. There's a new mode of life. The young bloods seem to have no taste for the pomp and circumstance which the last generation loved. They like both their houses and their parties simpler and gayer.

Latest of the great Long Island mansions marked for the wrecker is Colonel Henry H. Rogers' beach house at Southampton. Built with millions that gushed from oil wells, it will soon be torn down, at an estimated cost of $10,000, because of taxes and upkeep.

The 50-room stucco house, with its lavish furnishings and formal gardens, was the scene of glittering parties while Colonel Rogers lived. Guests whose names made headlines chatted with him over cigars in the blue-walled library, and champagne and diamonds sparkled in the huge drawing room, furnished with Italian antiques. After his death it was rarely occupied.



CLARENCE MACKAY'S 'ROSLYN'

Times were different when there was a Prince of Wales

Oheka — Otto Kahn's famous 440-acre place at Woodbury, L. I., also reflects the change of the times. During the life of the famous banker and art patron, the 100 - room "French chateau," crammed with art treasures and books worth a fortune, was the showplace of the countryside. Its parties always made news. Geraldine Farrar and other Metropolitan Opera stars sang at the musicales. But with Kahn's death in '34, the place became a problem.

In the summer of '39, the welfare fund of the New York department of sanitation acquired it and developed it as a vacation and rest center for employes. Street cleaners and garbage collectors romped over the tennis courts and their children splashed in the indoor pool.

But the project was abandoned this spring when the Department of Sanitation sought partial exemption from taxes on the place and the Huntington, L. I., town board opposed the plan. The estate reverted to the Kahn heirs and was sold recently to a real estate development company to be platted for commuters' homes.

Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's 115-acre estate at Manhasset has already been subdivided. Another Long Island show place offered for sale is the late Clarence Mackay's big Roslyn estate, where the duke of Windsor was entertained as prince of Wales. Samuel Untermyer, who died last March, disposed of his suburban estate by proffering it to New York state for a public park.

Thus the estates are following the Fifth avenue mansions into the limbo of the past. As the owner of one of these mansions, filled with a fortune in art treasures, summed up the trend of the times recently when he was showing a reporter his house: "Take a good look. You'll never see the like of this again."

Grid Greats In Huddle

Marion Golfers Defeat Lima

Marion Country club golfers unlimbered with all their power yesterday to shellack the strong invading Lima Shawnee squad, 37-8. It was sweet revenge for the defeat that the locals suffered earlier this season at their guest's home grounds.

T. D. McLaughlin, No. 1 brassie swinger for the visitors, paced the field with a blistering three under par 71. He was out in 37 and came in firing an eagle and two birdies for a 34. His opponent, Herb Petrich, carded a 35-40-76 which was best for the locals. Bill Schimmel, Marion club pro, avenged the beating that he received at the hands of Al Palogyi, Lima pro, in their first encounter this year, as he put together a 35 and 38 for a 73 while his opponent was taking 41-39-80 to tour the course.

A number of the Marionites found the course to their liking. K. M. Bower turned in a 35-42—77. Harry Lazear posted a 40-38—78. Jack Jennings was out in 39 and back in 37 for a 76. Bob Owens slapped out a 40 on the first nine and followed it up with a 38 for a 78 and G. E. Darnell linked a 40 and 39 together for a 79.

A dinner was served in the evening at which time prizes were awarded the following golfers: T. D. McLaughlin and Herb Petrich, low gross; Harry Lazear, W. P. Greer, Bill Sonnett Jr., Herb Petrich, T. D. McLaughlin, J. B. Bray, K. M. Bower, George Knostman, John Glackin, Fred Cook, Bob Lytle, F. W. Bacon, Dr. W. A. Dennis, J. A. Slanser, Bob Owens, E. C. Dee, G. E. Darnell and Leo Groll, birdies.

Three points were at stake in each match. One point was awarded the winner of each nine and another point to the winner of the 18 holes. Scores and points of the players are listed by twosomes with the Marion golfers listed second in each pairing:

T. D. McLaughlin 71, (2) vs. Herb Petrich 76, (1); W. P. Greer 84, (2½) vs. Dan LaMarche 80, (½); Bill Sonnell Jr. 81, (½) vs. J. B. Bray 81, (2½); George Knostman 80, (1) vs. K. M. Bower, (2); Dr. E. C. Yingling 86, (0) vs. John Glackin 80, (3); F. W. Cook, (0) vs. F. W. Bacon 80, (3); Bill Sonnett 90, (0) vs. Dr. W. A. Dennis 80, (3); Ray Foster 89, (1) vs. J. A. Slanser 88, (2); V. P. McGraw 92, (0) vs. Harry Lazear 78, (3); Bob Lytle 86, (0) vs. E. C. Dee 81, (3); E. J. Heil 88, (0) vs. G. E. Darnell 79, (3); Leo Mangrum 95, (1) vs. J. P. Sharkey 94, (2); Dr. Allen Wisely 91, (0) vs Leo Groll 80, (3); Jim Nagelson 87, (0) vs. Bob Owens 78, (3); Al Palogyi 80, (0) vs. Bill Schimmel 73, (3).

COURT HEARS DEBATE ON SALE OF BRIDGE

By The Associated Press

HUNTINGTON, W Va Aug 16—The Cabell county W Va court and attorneys for the Huntington-Ohio Bridge Co argued today for dissolution of a temporary injunction restraining the company from transferring an Ohio river span to the court

Special Circuit Judge George S Wallace yesterday granted the injunction sought by two Huntington taxpayers who contended the $2 000 000 sale price of the Huntington-Chesapeake bridge was 'excessive

The Cabell county court proposed to finance the purchase through issuance of bonds to be retired by bridge tolls

A subsequent offer of $685 300 for the bridge from the Lawrence county, O, bridge commission was rejected

LEADERS LOSE GROUND TODAY

War News Not Helpful as Losses Feature Market Session.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug 16—Leading stocks tilted backward in today's market as war news seemingly presented new buying complications

While a few minor gains cropped up occasionally, losses of fractions to more than 3 points predominated near the fourth hour. There were one or two drops of 4 or so

Bonds and commodities retreated with stocks.

Inclined to give ground most of the time were U S Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors Sears Roebuck Chrysler, United Aircraft American Telephone International Paper preferred and Westinghouse

A brisk rebound in automotive production this week was in line with expectations and failed to stimulate motor shares.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Aug 17

THE CUSTOMARY holiday spirit might as well be indulged this day since what business there is would only be of a routine nature and not particularly prolific or advantageous at that There are signs of social, romantic and intellectual activity far more lucrative enjoyable and worthwhile It would be a propitious time for trying your hand at writing love dramas or romantic adventure stories The urge is backed by novel ideas and plots

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which they may have excellent opportunity for putting into execution those long simmering ideas threatening to set the world on fire New plans and fresh ways of doing things should be successfully developed with the prospect of large business interests being easily shown, whereas employers or superiors might demand revisions Close at home there will be sympathy and support in furthering novel themes especially should they manifest as a desire for society fiction, romantic drama or prosaic scientific research It is an excellent period for giving expression to creative urges

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile and variable with decided bents toward creative art, literature or drama However this urge may not prove lucrative or happy unless released from some inherent natal tendencies by strict proper direction and restraints
